Revolting Congress Warned Taxes Must Offset Veteran Boost

Roosevelt Lays Down the Law at Parley With Leaders.

Increase in Allowance Declared Upsetting Economy Plans.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt laid the law down last night to a revolting Congress and told the House Democratic leadership the new increases in veterans allowances must be met with new taxes.

Objecting that Congress, in restricting the economies proposed by him on veterans allowances, was going back on the power previously granted to him and violating the party's campaign pledge, Mr. Roosevelt said he was willing to stay here all summer, if necessary, to keep the budget balanced.

Speaker Rainey and the Democratic chieftains from the House informed Mr. Roosevelt it was their opinion, nevertheless, that the House would overwhelmingly approve the increased veterans allowances added by the Senate to the independent offices appropriation bill.

House Leaders Silent.

The House leaders were silent as they left the three-hour meeting with the President. They had passed their word that he would do the talking. A report of proceedings was given out by Stephen T. Early, a secretary to the President.

Chairman Buchanan of the Appropriations Committee said he was uncertain when the controverted appropriation bill would be called up in the House, but it was indicated it would not be for several days.

Lewis Douglas, Director of the Budget, explained to the conference that the Senate amendment restricting reductions in allowances on service-connected cases to 25 per cent, together with other liberalizations, would cost $170,675,607. He said the changes would add 249,582 cases to the Federal rolls above those contemplated under the pending program.

Needed Relief Assured.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, reported that a survey was now under way seeking to provide relief for border line cases in which the veterans were destitute.

Mr. Roosevelt gave assurance that no vetdran who was destitute would be put out of a government hospital.

No attempt was made to decide on a form of new taxes to meet the prospective increase in veterans payments above the level proposed by the administration.

Apparently it was decided that the House leaders would be given a day or so to think things over. Only one

Balkan Nations Propose War Debt Cancellation

Bucharest, Roumania, June 4 (U. P.).—Complete cancellation of all war debts was proposed as a policy for the smaller nations of Balkan Europe at a conference of the eastern European agricultural states here today.

The proposal was submitted by the Roumanian financial minister, Virgil Madgearu, who based it on a plea for common action after the World Economic Conference in London ends.

Johnson Sees Wages Up

Conferences With Nation's Business Leaders Convince Him Millions of Workers Will Benefit by Industrial Recovery Act.

(Associated Press.)

Higher wages for millions of workers following close upon enactment of the industrial recovery act are envisaged by Hugh S. Johnson, selected to administer the legislation, as a result of conferences with business leaders the Nation over.

The supplementary plan carried by the act for putting thousands of idle men to work at public construction also was reported yesterday in administration circles to be taking shape rapidly. Projects to cost millions of dollars were described as ready for the action stage soon after funds become available from the $3,300,000,000 securities issue.

Directed by Johnson, the widespread machinery, to carry out President Roosevelt's plans, is being set up with unprecedented speed in the expectation that he can affix his signature to the measure before the week is out.

The Senate Finance Committee intends today to complete its study of the legislation, acting upon the alternative taxation plan which Chairman Harrison, of Mississippi, has proposed as a substitute for the House set-up, which embodied an increase in the gasoline tax, higher income taxes and corporation dividend taxes.

Administration spokesmen hope that the bill will be ready for Senate debate tomorrow, but Harrison has served notice that he will make a floor fight to insert again the committee-deleted provision permitting

FRANCIS WHITE HELD MINISTER TO PRAGUE

President Expected to Submit Nomination to Senate This Week.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Roosevelt will send to the Senate for confirmation early this week the name of Francis White, at present Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Latin-American relations, as American Minister of Czechoslovakia, it was learned here yesterday. The formal request as to whether Mr. White would be persona grata has been made through the American Legation at Prague and the Czech government is expected to indicate their pleasure at the appointment.

The nomination of Mr. White to the European post marks the end of his six years here at the Department of State at the difficult job of directing American affairs in Latin America. Mr. White desired the post of American Ambassador to Cuba. In fact, the Maryland delegation in Congress called on the President to appoint their favorite son to Havana. But the President decided on the selection of another Free Stater, Sumner Welles, for the extremely important take of representing him near President Machado. On account of his intimate connection with the disurbed trend of the recurrent Chaco war between Bolivia and Paraguay and his equally close connection to the Leticia incident between Colombia and Peru, Mr. White's appointment to a South American post was considered inexpedient at this moment.

At the present time, President Roosevelt has not determined on the

Bogus Money Raid Nets 13 Prisoners

Detroit, June 4 (A.P.).—Thirteen men were Federal prisoners today in a round-up of what Secret Service operatives said was a ring that had passed $15,000 in counterfeit money brought in from the East.

Bert C. Brown, chief Secret Service operative, said that Elmer Macklin, long allied with various Detroit gangs, was leader of the ring in Detroit. Brown said that Macklin and Mike Rebino, 28, bought the bogus money in the East, paying $15 per $100 of face value, selling it to passers here at $35 per $100. Macklin and Rebino are among the prisoners.

Federal agents, aided by police, took 150 men into custody early today at two downtown corners where, Brown said, leaders of the ring were accustomed to pass out the counterfeit currency to confederates from automobiles. Most of them were released with warnings after being questioned.

Santiago, Chile, Shaken By Quake; No Damage

Santiago, Chile, June 4 (A.P.).—A slight earthquake was felt in this vicinity at 9:43 o'clock tonight. There were no immediate reports of damage.

$50,000,000 IS LENT TO CHINA BY R. F. C.

Dr. Soong Negotiates Deal to Buy American Wheat and Cotton Cargoes.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with the full approval of President Roosevelt, yesterday agreed to lend China $50,000,000 to be used in buying American cotton and wheat.

The loan, negotiated by Dr. T. V. Soong, finance minister for the Nationalist government of China, was announced yesterday by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the corporation.

It climaxed protracted negotiations started last year when Northwestern wheat growers attempted to sell several millions of bushels of wheat to China, using Reconstruction Finance Corporation money to finance the deal. The proposal fell through originally, however, because no agreement as to responsibility could be reached.

The money is to be made available to China as purchases are made in the American open market. At present prices, it was estimated at the corporation, this would take over 900,000 bales of cotton and approxi-

Gandhi Out of Danger And 10 Pounds Heavier

Poona, India, June 4 (U.P.).—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi was reported definitely out of danger tonight, after his 21-day fast for India's "untouchables."

Gandhi had gained 10 pounds and was taking diluted goat's milk, boiled tomatoes, honey and fruit juices regularly. He was able to stand and walked 10 yards on legs still feeble from the ordeal.

Caledonia Hits Ledge, Delaying Its Departure

Boston, June 4 (A.P.).—The liner Caledonia, with nearly 1,000 passengers aboard, scraped bottom while steaming out of Boston Harbor today and was delayed several hours when she put back to Quarantine for examination.

The pilot and ship's officers said she touched a ledge which, they said, had been piled up in the channel by recent northeast storms. An inspection of the hull and bottom revealed no damage, and the ship proceeded on her way to Belfast, in Ireland, shortly after 10 p. m.

Woman Killed by Shot; Only Joking, Man Says

Santa Rosa, Calif., June 4 (A.P.).—In what police said was an intended joke, Mrs. Virginia Lee, 38, of San Francisco, was shot and killed by her fiance, Joseph Bacigalupi, 39, as she lay on a bed in women's quarters of a resort near here today.

Mrs. Lee was killed by a charge from a shotgun aimed at her by Bacigalupi as he playfully said "Get up or I'll shoot." She was struck in the abdomen. Bacigalupi was released after questioning.

3 DIE BY AUTOS, 2 ARE DROWNED AND MANY HURT

2 Killed When Car Turns Over on Way to Maryland Beach.

Three automobile fatalities and two drownings occurred yesterday as Washingtonians sought relief from the heat at nearby bathing resorts.

Joseph Minkin, 48, of 1316 Belmont street northwest, and Max Zager, of 600 Sixth street, were killed when their automobile overturned as it left the road on a turn on a back road to Mariboro above the Western Branch. Sophie Minkin, 19, daughter of Mr. Minkin, suffered serious injuries, and Joseph A. Rinis, of the Belmont street address, was treated at the scene of the accident.

Sydney Koseack, 915 F street northeast, a passenger in the overturned car, was injured and taken to this city for treatment. Miss Minkin, a student at George Washington University, was treated at Sibley Hospital, where she was said to be suffering from a fractured leg, a possible fracture of the skull and lacerations to the face and neck.

Bound for Bathing Beach.

The victims were en route to a bathing resort above Marlboro when their car left the road and turned over several times. An automobile was coming toward them at the time and its operator aided police in extricating the occupants.

Benton Hoffman, 33, of 1475 Park road northwest, was killed almost instantly when the taxicab he was operating skidded off the road on the Frederick highway near Clarksburg, Md., and overturned early yesterday.

According to police, the cab turned over when Hoffman lost control. T. Paul Moberly, of the Park road address, a passenger in the vehicle was treated by Dr. Stanley Barber, at Gaithersburg, for shock, bruises and lacerations.

Drowning in Virginia.

Hoffman's body was taken to Ernest C. Gartner's undertaking establishment at Gaithersburg. County Policemen Paul Watkins and G. W. Linthicum are investigating the crash.

An Alexandria bridegroom of six weeks lost his life in the swirling rapids of Occoquan Creek, Occoquan, Va., while attending a family picnic with his bride and relatives. His body had not been recovered late last night.

The drowned man, Vernon Scott, 21, was swept to his death while attempting to cross the creek. Stepping from rock to rock, Scott lost his balance and plunged into the water.

His head and back apparently struck one of the huge stones, rendering him semiconscious. Charles Lindsay, a brother-in-law, dived into the creek to effect a rescue. Both

W. L. JAMIESON KILLED IN FALL OF MAIL PLANE

Well-Known Flier Was Behind Schedule on Way to Capital.

W. L. "Larry" Jamieson, Eastern Air Transport pilot flying from Richmond to Washington, was killed early yesterday when his single motored mail plane crashed and burned 3 miles west of Brandywine, Va., 60 miles south of here.

The plane fell into a 75-foot ravine after crashing through the trees and underbrush. Jamieson's charred body was found in the wreckage.

Jamieson had been flying the New York to Richmond mail trip for Eastern Air Transport for three years, daily passing through the Capital, where he had a great number of friends. He was one of the most experienced pilots on the line.

Was Behind Schedule.

He left Richmond yesterday morning at 2:03 o'clock, 23 minutes behind schedule. Weather conditions were fair although he was forced to fly into rather strong head winds. Officials at Washington Airport believe the pilot was forced to fly low and that when his engine failed he did not have sufficient altitude or time to make use of his parachute.

The plane in which Jamieson crashed was being flown in relays to New York from Atlanta. Richard Merrill, of the line, left Atlanta in the ship at 9 o'clock Saturday night, one hour behind schedule. He was able to make up 37 minutes of his lost time when he arrived at Richmond at 2 a. m. When he turned the ship over to Jamieson to complete the run it was in apparently good condition.

Jamieson was married and lived at Sanston, Va., a suburb of Richmond. He is survived by his widow and two sons, about 1 and 9 years of age.

Was to Race With Stars.

Jamieson's body was removed to a Richmond undertaking establishment last night. It will be sent to Edmund, Okla., for burial. Practically all of the mail which Jamieson was bringing North on his flight was destroyed in the fire that followed the crash.

Jamieson had recently completed the design and construction of his own "mystery ship" which he planned to race on July 1 from New York to Los Angeles in the Bendix Trophy race, featured and opening event of the National Air Races in Los Angeles. In this cross country dash he would have been pitted against Frank Hawks, Jimmy Doolittle, Jimmy Wedell and Roscoe Turner, all famous racing fliers. Although lacking in racing experience, and flying a plane of unknown speed, Jamieson was strongly backed by his friends to cross the country in record time. After the completion of the Bendix Trophy race Jamieson planned to fly the ship in the Thompson race and the Shell races over closed courses in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Plane Held Back by Strong Headwind

First Lady Reaches Kansas City More Than Hour Late En Route to See Son, Elliott, on Pacific Coast.

Kansas City, June 4 (A.P.).—Delayed more than an hour by severe headwinds on a flight from St. Louis, the air liner bearing Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to the Pacific Coast for a visit with her son, Elliott, landed here at 9:31 p. m. Central Standard time tonight.

The plane was 2 hours and 41 minutes on the way from St. Louis, 239 miles to the east.

Pilots said the winds, ranging to 35 miles an hour or more, slowed up the plane materially from Marshall, Mo., westward.

Mrs. Roosevelt was to stop at a hotel here several hours and take an early morning plane for Dallas, Tex.

Kansas City was the fourth stop on her flight from Washington.

(Associated Press.)

An early breakfast this morning with relatives "between planes" at Dallas, Tex., was the immediate goal of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as she sped across the continent by air for a hurried visit with her son, Elliott, at Los Angeles.

Exclamations of pleasure came from the First Lady as she flew over city after city yesterday and throughout last night on the longest airplane trip ever made by a President's wife.

"Very delightful," said Mrs. Roosevelt of her journey to those she met en route.

As she flew, the first lady accumulated bouquets from various of her admirers, drew a cheering throng of nearly 5,000 people to greet her at St. Louis, and chatted with welcoming delegations at Columbus and Indianapolis.

In turn, she herself spoke words of greeting to those who met her, and spotted her fingers with ink in sign-

DESPERADO CAUGHT AFTER KIDNAPING 12

Fugitive of Kansas Prison Confesses; Man Used as Shield Shot.

Chickasha, Okla., June 4 (A.P.).—Highway marauders terrorized motorists of Oklahoma and Arkansas, a desperado accused of abducting twelve persons was arrested and Bob Goodfellow, kidnap victim, was wounded in a gun fight today.

Sheriff Horace Crips said the kidnaper confessed he was Frank Sawyer, 33-year-old bank robber and killer, who escaped from the Kansas Penitentiary with ten other convicts Memorial Day.

Goodfellow, one of the last persons kidnaped by Sawyer, was shot through the groin as Sawyer attempted to use him as a shield in a gun fight with Sheriff Crisp and Deputy Sheriff Al Marlow at Binger, near this city.

A large crowd gathered tonight about the county jail where Sawyer was held, but no attempt was made to storm the jail. Deputy sheriffs said the crowd was "merely curious" and soon dispersed. No additional officers were called to guard the convict.

Two men, believed by officers to be escaped Kansas convicts, nine of whom remain at liberty, held up a filling station west of Mammoth Springs, Ark., fired upon J. D. Bookout, the owner, and kidnaped Cleo Reeves for a short ride.

Reeves said they threatened him with death before throwing him from their motor car. Officers said the gunmen apparently were the ones who

Hope Is Still Held By Mrs. Mattern

Walla Walla, Wash., June 4 (A.P.).—The young and attractive wife of Jimmie Mattern was not very much upset this afternoon when she read press reports that her husband was long overdue in Paris. "I never give up hope," she declared.

Blonde hair in perfect order and with light brown eyes showing just a hint of anxiety, Mrs. Mattern discussed the flight in a calm manner.

"I hardly believe Jimmie flew over Paris and continued on to Berlin or Moscow. Unless he had extremely favorable tailwinds all the way his gas supply would not make the longer hop possible.

"I understand there are a lot of bleak places in Ireland and perhaps Jimmie has landed in some spot where communication is difficult or impossible.

"Anyway, I never give up hope and I won't," Mrs. Mattern said.

Farmer, Awaiting Trial For Murder, Kills Self

Lawton, Okla., June 4 (A.P.).—The murder trial of R. O. Lawson, 62-year-old Comanche County farmer, scheduled to come up in district court here tomorrow, was wiped from the docket when he shot himself early today in the basement of his home.

"I had rather die than testify to a lie," a note left by the farmer stated. He was charged with killing Marion Woolford, a crippled neighbor, October 20, 1930, after Woolford allegedly made a disparaging remark about Lawson's daughter.

U. S. TO URGE TANKS SLASH, PARIS HEARS

Davis Expected to Suggest Further Reduction to Save Arms Parley.

Paris, June 4 (U.P.)—The United States intends to urge that France agree to further reductions of tanks and heavy artillery in a new move to save the world arms conference, it was reported tonight.

Norman H. Davis, representing President Roosevelt, was expected to make that suggestion at the three-power parley here with France and Great Britain Thursday.

This suggestion and a request that France further sacrifice her security guarantee claims will form the basis of the American plan as outlined during these conversations designed to permit drafting of a preliminary arms accord prior to the opening of the World Economic Conference in London a week from tomorrow.

The week will be heavily charged with diplomatic activities in a final effort to eliminate troubling discord seen threatening the success of the economic conference.

France and other European powers are worried over Germany's threat to declare a moratorium on her foreign debts to protect the mark. This, it was asserted, would further upset world currencies already complicated by the depreciated dollar.

Also, Joseph Caillaux, former premier, so far has refused to reply to the government's invitation to lead the French delegation to London unless the United States and Great Britain pledge to stabilize their currencies before the conference convenes. The government must name its delegation by Tuesday, but Caillaux left Paris over the weekend without replying.

Meanwhile, the four power pact designed to assure peace in Europe for 10 years was held up while diplomats sought to smooth out the problem of Germany's demand for arms equality.

Bandit Robs Shop Of Woman Florist

Forced at gun point into a small closet at the rear of her flower shop, 1229 Good Hope road southeast, Mrs. Hattie Beall lay helpless on the floor early yesterday while a daring robber made his escape with more than $45 from a cash register.

Mrs. Beall told police a well-dressed young man entered her store shortly after 10 a. m. He looked over her stock, she said, then suddenly drew a gun and forced her to enter a closet in the rear.

Made to lie on the floor, Mrs. Beall said the intruder closed the door, warning her not to move. He then looted the till and escaped, police were told. Mrs. Beall, after several minutes, made her way to a telephone and summoned aid.

New Jersey Beer Baron Shot to Death at Home

Paterson, N. J., June 4 (A.P.).—William Oppenheim, described by police as an independent beer distributor and known as "Big Opie" and "Roundhouse," chiefly because he weighed over 400 pounds, was found shot to death early today in the vestibule of the apartment house in which he resided.

The bullets had been fired into his head and body, apparently at close range.

MATTERN HOPS AGAIN; MOSCOW HIS NEXT GOAL

Fears Had Been Raised by His Failure to Reach Paris.

Oslo, Norway (Monday), June 5, (A.P.).—James Mattern, American flier, landed here yesterday after a nonstop flight from New York.

Mattern hopped off again for Moscow at 6:45 a. m. (12:45 a. m., E.S.T.), for Moscow.

New York (Monday), June 5 (A.P.).—Jimmie Mattern, who sought to blaze a solo sky trail around the world, was still missing early today, 18 hours after his fuel supply was believed to have been exhausted.

As darkness deepened over Europe and 48 hours elapsed since the Texan streaked away from here, his friends had only hazy reports of plane sightings in Ireland to weigh against their concern that Mattern had experienced trouble.

His gasoline was estimated to have been consumed when his hours in the air reached the early thirties.

Bad Weather Feared.

Mattern's New York representative, Jack Clark, held firm to an announcement that Paris was Mattern's first objective, despite the statement of an Oklahoma City friend that the birdman once had thought of heading for Moscow first without advance notice.

"Even with the most favorable conditions he could not have gone straight on to Moscow," said Clark.

"If anything unfortunate has happened to Jimmie, I would say it was caused by the same thing that undoubtedly caused the Akron disaster—the weather."

Reports from Ireland.

Mattern had hoped to have lunch in Paris yesterday (between 7 and 9 a. m., Eastern standard time) and a crowd of about 300 awaited him at Le Bourget until nightfall.

The first of the fragmentary advices from Ireland told of the motors of a plane being heard over the west coast of County Clare, but the hour of the report, well before dawn there, was so early as to make it doubtful if Mattern had achieved such a distance by then.

A second message, which coincided more nearly with estimates of capabilities of Mattern's ship, said a plane with red, white and blue markings—the colors of his craft—passed over Kilgarvan, County Kerry, Ireland, at 6:50 a. m., Eastern standard time.

The direction of this plane, however, was given as southwest, which would be opposite to a Paris-bound course and difficult to explain unless the pilot had become confused by fog.

If this was Mattern's ship, he apparently had missed Ireland alto-

Detroit, June 4 (A.P.).—Patrick H. O'Brien, attorney general of Michigan, said today there will be a grand jury investigation of conditions in Detroit that led to the closing of Michigan banks by gubernatorial proclamation, a step which marked the beginning of the national bank crisis.

MORGAN FIRM PAYS $100,000 SALARIES

Disclosure May Affect Tax Status of International Banking House.

(Associated Press.)

A disclosure that some members of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. are paid a straight salary of $100,000 a year was made authoritatively yesterday as the Senate committee investigating the huge international banking house approaching a decision on how far it would inquire into the personal income tax returns of Morgan partners.

Members of the inquiry committee said that the deleted part of the Morgan partnership agreement, which was withheld from publication, showed that in addition to having a small interest in the profits of the great banking house some of the younger members also received salaries.

Before the investigation resumes today, the committee will meet in executive session to consider a protest from John W. Davis, counsel for the house of Morgan, over the plan to go into personal stock transactions of the firm's partners, in connection with their income tax returns.

Private Dealings Probed.

Ferdinand Pecora, the committee's counsel, is prepared to question three members of the firm in this connection—Thomas S. Lamont, William Ewing and Harold Stanley.

The first of these, son of the famous elder member of the firm, Thomas W. Lamont, was on the stand when the investigation was abruptly recessed for the week-end Friday after Davis' protest.

The Morgan attorney leaped to his feet to object when Pecora asked young Lamont whether he recalled selling a block of several thousand shares of stock on December 30, 1930. The witness finally said he could not recall and was given the week-end to refresh his memory.

There were indications last night of a bitter contest within the committee on the question of how far along this line the inquiry should go. Chairman Fletcher, who ruled the question pertinent, stated, however, that no members of the committee had formally registered opposition with him to going ahead.

Fletcher will have the strong support today of Senator Costigan (Dem.), Colorado, quiet-spoken but determined member of the committee, in approving Pecora's plans.

Senator Glass, (Dem.), Virginia, who has been the most constant critic of the inquiry, said his decision would depend upon the arguments made before the committee by Davis and Pecora.

The fact that some members of the firm are paid a salary, in addition to their interest in the firm, may have a bearing on the question raised by the investigators as to whether the partnership agreement is actually that or an employment contract.

May End Tomorrow

Senator Costigan raised this point when the closely guarded agreement was made public, showing the dominant position occupied in the partnership by the senior partner, J. P. Morgan. Costigan said at that time it might have an important bearing on the tax question.

Pecora and his staff spent the week-end in Washington preparing to wind up the spectacular inquiry with the bringing out of fresh evidence. He hopes to conclude the inquiry into the Morgan firm by tomorrow night.

If he is not permitted to go into the income tax question today, Pecora will swing into a scrutiny of the Morgan firm's part in the financing of the Van Sweringen railroad empire through the Alleghany Corporation.

As a result of evidence presented as to the extent of Morgan holdings in the power and gas fields, members of the committee already are studying possible legislative limitations upon the concentration of financial power in the hands of a few.

Possibility that the inquiry may not be concluded this week arose today when Costigan suggested it should be kept open for future developments.

"I hope the investigation will not be closed yet," Costigan said. "There are such large aspects to this subject that it would be regrettable to conclude the inquiry without going more deeply into some of these problems."

Other Probes Ready.

At its meeting today the committee may be called upon to map out the immediate future course of the inquiry. Pecora will be ready to go ahead during the week with the inquiries into Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Dillon, Read & Co., if the committee wishes.

There is a possibility, however, in view of the probable adjournment of Congress soon, that these investigations may be postponed until the fall. In the meantime, Pecora is ready to begin inquiries into investment trust and general stock market practices.

He expects to propose to the committee an additional appropriation to carry the inquiry through to the next session of Congress, scheduled to begin in January. Available funds, he said, would carry him only through the summer.

Gold Strike Rivals Old KlondikeBoom

New gold developments rivaling the famous Comstock and Klondike booms of other days have been discovered in New Mexico, it was announced here yesterday by Henry Mace Payne, formerly consulting engineer of the American Mining Congress and former mining consultant to the late Czar of Russia. Dr. Payne hailed the New Mexican development as the "greatest single potential placer operation in North America."

Former Vice President Curtis has accepted the presidency of the corporation which will direct the work of recapturing the great gold fields in the Southwest originally discovered by the Spanish explorers of the sixteenth century.

"The general material excavated from the shaft, from surface to within 2 feet of the bottom, averaged $3.42 per cubic yard," Payne's official report said. "The bottom 2 feet of the shaft on and in bedrock assayed $73.38 per cubic yard. The material from the sand cut at the upper end of the flat averaged $1.67 per cubic yard, and the material from the riffles in the river, where all fine gold was carried away by the current, assayed $2.51 per cubic yard."

Medicine Fortune Heiress Charges Beating in Hotel

Mrs. Miriam Hostetter Young, Pittsburgh Social Leader, Claims She Was Assaulted by Eugene A. Bowen, Former New York Restaurant Owner.

Reno, Nev., June 4 (A.P.).—Eugene A. Bowen, former New York restaurant owner, was held in the city jail here today on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Miriam V. Hostetter Young, Pittsburgh social leader and heiress to the Hostetter patent medicine fortune.

Police said the attack occurred at an exclusive hotel here several days ago. J. M. Kirkley, chief of police, said Mrs. Young was "covered with black and blue marks."

Rumor linked Bowen and Mrs. Young in a romance when she came here about April 1 and established residence with the announced intention of seeking a divorce from Charles Fuller Young, of Pittsburgh. Bowen, a week ago, announced they were to be married, but Mrs. Young issued a denial.

The alleged beating was administered soon afterward, Chief Kirkley said. Bowen was in jail in default of $250 bail.

Chief Kirkley revealed he was investigating the disappearance of jewels, later recovered, valued by Mrs. Young at $20,000. Chief Kirkley said Bowen entrusted the jewels to a bartender for safekeeping and that the gems disappeared. They were later recovered, the chief of police said, and are in a safe at the police station.

FRENCH TRAIN CRASH KILLS 14, HURTS 116

Engineer Disregards Order and Signals, Derailing Excursion Express.

Nantes, France, June 4 (A.P.)—Fourteen persons were killed and 116 were injured, many gravely, early today in the derailment of the Paris-Nantes Express train laden with excursionists on the way to Brittany for the Whitsuntide holiday.

The Express was supposed to take a switch to pass the spot where another derailed train was piled up. The engineer is reported to have failed to observe the signals. Then he saw his error, suddenly reversed the engine and applied the brakes. The train left the tracks.

The engineer later admitted that he ran through four "slow" signals at high speed and also neglected to read cautionary orders.

The engineer was arrested.

The Express carried 300 passengers, most of whom were Parisians.

DESPERADO CAUGHT AFTER KIDNAPING 12

kidnaped a man and woman at Pine Bluff, Ark., Friday night, released them at Malvern, Ark., yesterday and drove off in the couple's machine.

Previously two men had forced Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Payne, of Monroe, La., to drive them from Monroe to Pine Bluff.

Other kidnapings in Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas have marked the trail of the fugitives from the prison at Lansing, Kans. A bank holdup and various robberies are laid to the convicts. Sawyer was the second to be arrested. Lewis Bechtel, 28, Kansas bank robber, was captured Friday near Dripping Springs, Okla.

Sheriff's officers said Sawyer started his wild ride through central Oklahoma about 7:30 a. m. today, when he kidnaped two boys, whose names were not learned, north of Norman.

A few minutes later he released them, kidnaped Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gray, of Lawton, Okla., and took their car, forcing them to accompany him.

He drove toward Middleburg, 14 miles east of here, where he abandoned the car with a flat tire and took another from passing motorists, forcing the couple riding in it to accompany Mr. and Mrs. Gray.

When a steering rod on that machine went bad, the convict drove to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Strongfield, took their car and forced them to go with him and the four others.

The desperado continued North to the home of Olin Morris, 25. There he released Gray and his wife and forced Morris and his son to go with him and the other kidnaped persons.

After driving the Morris car to a farm seven miles North of Gracemont, he stepped out and told his victims to drive on. Then he walked up to the house where Bob Goodfellow, Caddo county clerk, was visiting a girl friend and compelled Goodfellow and the girl to drive him North and West in Goodfellow's car.

The machine went into a ditch East of Binger when Goodfellow grabbed at the bandit's pistol.

Sheriff Crisp and Marlow, searching for the desperado, drove up and asked Goodfellow if he wanted to be pulled out.

As the officers stepped out of their car, Sawyer opened fire, pulling Goodfellow in front of him for a shield. A shot struck Goodfellow in the groin and he fell.

The two officers leaped on the convict. The girl pulled his hair. Marlow obtained Sawyer's pistol and struck him. He then was brought here and placed in jail, where officers said he admitted his identity.

Scattered posses of officers and farmers continued to comb the hills of Northeastern Oklahoma and Western Arkansas today in hopes of finding other Lansing fugitives.

WIND HITS CHICAGO; BUILDINGS DAMAGED

Telephone Lines Are Twisted; 84,000 at Exposition Driven to Shelter.

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—A severe wind whipped into Chicago tonight accompanied by heavy rain and lightning, blowing down trees, twisting electric and telephone lines, and damaging buildings.

It was feared one life was lost as a portion of a two-story brick building crumpled. Small lake craft crippled by waves, kept Coast Guard patrols busy answering calls for aid. The guardsmen expressed confidence that there was no loss of life.

The storm sent some 84,000 persons at the Century of Progress rushing for shelter.

Nearly a score of persons were treated at the Emergency Hospital on the fair grounds for minor cuts and bruises received from flying glass.

Airport officials said no planes were reported in difficulties, but two scheduled to take off were grounded.

FEARS FOR MATTERN IN OCEAN HOP GROW

gether and was headed for the continent.

There seemed little ground for believing he had flown beyond Paris, since he carried 700 gallons of gasoline, enough for only about 30 hours. His plane, the Century of Progress, was the same in which he and Bennett Griffin soared to Berlin last year in 31 hours and 39 minutes.

Plans for Reception.

At the Le Bourget Field a bed in a darkened room of the administration building had been prepared so that the former jazz band drummer could sleep for a few hours before continuing his attempt to be the first man to fly around the world alone.

A special crew was ready with 600 gallons of gasoline and a supply of oil for a quick refueling of the plane, but as the hours passed hope of his reaching Paris was abandoned.

The 26-year-old Mattern, who received special Army training in blind flying, left the North American coast late Saturday afternoon. He was last seen on this side of the Atlantic soaring over the Wadham Islands, just off the northeast coast of Newfoundland.

Carried Fishing Tackle.

In his rebuilt ship he carried neither wireless nor a collapsible boat. His food supply consisted of a half dozen of oranges crammed into his pockets before he left Floyd Bennett Field, together with some tea crystals and several bottles of hot water.

For an emergency, such as being forced down in barren Siberia or Alaska, he took along a hunting knife, mosquito netting, 8 ounces of salt, fishing tackle, a razor and several searchlights.

Mattern's friends here expressed the view he probably had been forced down in an isolated spot, probably in Ireland. They recalled that when he and Griffin were grounded in a peat bog near Borisov, Russia, on their attempted world flight, it was 24 hours before word of their safety was received.

Weather Change Makes Mollisons Delay Flight

London, June 4 (A.P.).—Unfavorable weather reports handed tonight to Capt. and Mrs. James A. Mollison brought the announcement from them that the start of their transocean flight to New York has been postponed from tomorrow morning until Tuesday.

The Mollisons are planning to fly from Croydon to New York, then almost immediately from New York back across the Atlantic to Bagdad, and then again to England.

MORGENTHAU GIVES PUBLICITY TO LOANS

Reveals 30 Farm Cooperatives Receiving More Than $156,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration, yesterday inaugurated a publicity policy upon loans, revealing for the first time that, as of April 30, farm cooperative organizations owed the Farm Board a total of $156,370,309.

The board, which was absorbed last week by the new credit administration, made few of its commitments to cooperatives public. Its members maintained in the past that the relationship between board and borrower was "confidential," resembling "the relationship of a banker to a borrower."

Since Morgenthau assumed office, March 6, the aggregate loans to cooperatives have been reduced about $800,000. On February 28 cooperative loans totaled $157,236,323.

Cotton Group Heads List.

Since that time advances on old and new commitments of $3,132,529 have been made, while repayments of $3,998,544 have been received.

Morgenthau announced yesterday that once each month he will make the list of loans public.

The largest outstanding loan shown upon today's list as of April 30 was that of the American Cotton Cooperative Association of New Orleans, totaling $71,454,735. A commitment of $440,455 to this organization has been made since February 28.

The second largest outstanding loan, $17,656,699, was that of the National Wool Marketing Corporation, Boston. Next in line was the loan of the Farmers National Grain Corporation, Chicago, totaling $15,768,960. This organization also had a separate loan of $789,379, made for drought relief.

Other Million Loans

Other loans in excess of $1,000,000 shown in Morgenthau's report as of April 30 were:

California Grape Control Board, Ltd., San Francisco, $2,460,690; California Raisin Pool, Fresno, Calif., $1,267,257; Cooperative Pure Milk Association, Cincinnati, $1,725,000; Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, New York, $3,750,000; Florida Citrus Exchange, Tampa, $2,179,606.

Fruit Industries, Ltd., San Francisco, $2,934,149; Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc., Minneapolis, $2,977,875; National Livestock Marketing Association, Chicago, $4,055,011; Staple Cotton Cooperative Association, Greenwood, Miss., $10,958,841; Sun Maid Raisin Growers of California, Fresno, Calif., $4,484,287.

Radio Account of Operations New Feature of G. W. U. Clinic.

A "running account" of operations as they are performed will be given by surgeons at Gallinger hospital this morning for the benefit of persons participating in the annual postgraduate clinics of the school of medicine, George Washington University.

Through the use of new equipment, the surgeon will explain various phases of the operation by means of sound apparatus resembling radio broadcasting paraphernalia so that his audience in all parts of the room may keep pace with progress of the operation.

Today's clinic, which starts at 9:30 and, with the exception of a lunch period at noon, lasts until 3:30, will be the first of a series. Tomorrow at George Washington medical school and hospital demonstrations in laboratory work will be given, while on Wednesday clinics will be held at Emergency, Garfield, Episcopal, St. Elizabeth's and Children's hospitals.

DRYS WILL LAUNCH BITTEREST CRUSADE

McBride Says Eight States to Vote This Month Will Not Back Repeal.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

America's prohibitionists revealed last night that the bitterest fight of their history will begin this month.

Greatest activity in a decade was apparent in the musty Bliss Building, across the street from the Capitol. There, in an atmosphere redolent of furniture polish and strong soap, the most powerful dry organizations in the United States drew plans for what they predict will be their epic battle against intoxicating liquors.

Eight States so far have voted to repeal the eighteenth amendment. Eight more will vote during June.

"And this time the story will be different," exclaimed F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League. "The eight States that have voted were wet States. The eight States which vote in June are not wet States. We concede none of them. We predict confidently that all—with the possible exception of Illinois—will go dry. And that is just the beginning of our fight."

McBride is particularly bitter over the administration's promise to rescind the "nuisance taxes" if liquor laws are repealed.

"That promise," McBride declared, "is nothing more than a threat to fine citizens for voting dry and to pay them a bonus for voting wet. It is a holdup proposition. The wets never before have dared to use such a scheme.

"The wets are trying to coerce and stampede the people. Their program is the most brazen I have ever seen."

The brewers, meantime, are "cheating" drinkers, he believes, because they "are afraid" to put 3.2 per cent of alcohol in their beer.

"The beer they are selling is near beer," he said, "and that is because the brewers fear a real public reaction if they make beer intoxicating."

WINDS HOLD BACK FIRST LADY'S PLANE

ing autographs for fellow passengers, because, she said, it seemed that "a fountain pen leaks more in the air than on the ground."

At St. Louis, over a loud speaker system, she told the throng with a smile:

"I am only here for a little while. I can only say a brief word. I am very pleased to have a chance to say hello, goodby and good luck."

Mrs. Roosevelt planned to have breakfast at Dallas this morning with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Waterbury, jr., before changing to another plane and flying on toward Tucson, Ariz.

Scheduled to arrive there this afternoon, she will spend 24 hours with her friend, Mrs. Isabella Greenway, reaching Los Angeles tomorrow night.

Her return trip will be started early Thursday morning and she expects to be in New York by Friday night.

Wearing a traveling suit of dark blue silk, with blouse of figured blue, dark blue hat and low-heeled shoes, Mrs. Roosevelt left Washington Airport at 9 a. m., Eastern standard time.

She was very nonchalant about it, chatting and laughing until she entered the plane and the motors roared for the start of the trip. She carried a little tan leather bag, in which were the materials for "reading, writing and knitting," with which she planned to spend her time.

ROOSEVELT WARNS CONGRESS NEW TAXES WILL BE NEEDED

member of the ways and means committee which is charged with initiating revenue legislation, was present—Representative McCormack, of Massachusetts, an advocate of the sales tax.

Members Attend Parley

Speaker Rainey and Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the floor leader, headed the group. Others attending were representatives Buchanan and Rayburn, of Texas; Pou and Warren, of North Carolina; Bankhead and McDuffie, of Alabama; Milligan, of Missouri; Arnold, of Illinois; Browning, of Tennessee, and Lewis, of Colorado.

Earlier in the night in an address, Louis M. Howe, secretary to Mr. Roosevelt, shaid the Senate action would mean that "additional taxes will have to be raised which will amount to about $1.25 for every human being in the United States, directly or indirectly."

The President returned to the White House early in the evening after a cruise down the Potomac River with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, during which the program for quick adjournment of Congress and enactment of the pending industrial control-taxation-public works bill was discussed.

More Taxes Certain.

Discussing the decision of the Senate to add $170,000,000 for veterans' allowances to the administration program, Howe said:

"You can be assured that eventually you will have to dig down and give Uncle Sam $1.25 for yourself, your Mrs. and all the kiddies if you happen to be the head of a family, because in the long run any deficiency in the budget has to be paid for by the people.

"Yes, the budget was really balanced. There is no doubt that the greatest element of the general hopefulness which has been sweeping the country and the definite trend towards better times, was caused by the announcement that the budget would be balanced, and balanced it will have to be in one way or another. Before this veterans' allowance increase came, the budget had been cut from roughly $3,500,000,000 to $2,500,000,000."

Howe's address was made in another part of the capital at almost the same minute as the president arranged to sit down with congressional leaders at the White House.

It was reported at first that the meeting would include Senator Brynes (Democrat), South Carolina, who handled the independent offices bill carrying the veterans' outlays in its passage through the Senate, but at the White House later it was said he had not been called.

Already having rejected the sales tax, but only by a margin of two votes, the Senate Finance Committee has been called to meet today to act on Chairman Harrison's substitute for the House increases in normal income taxes.

Harrison is convinced that a further boost in income levies at this time would be decidedly unpopular in view of the disclosures in the J. P. Morgan investigation.

He has proposed instead a capital stock tax on one-tenth of 1 per cent designed to raise $80,000,000 in revenue; a corporation dividend tax deducted at the source; a raise of one-half a cent in the existing 1 cent gasoline levy; denial of the right of private bankers to deduct security losses from ordinary income, and prohibiting members of partnerships to charge off their distributive losses.

Legislation Pressing.

These two controversies must be patched up quickly if the Congress is to get away on schedule, as many other major measures remain to be passed, while still others must be composed in conference and then finally acted upon.

The House is slated to pass the emergency railroad economy coordinator bill today, with some minor changes in the Senate text. It then will take up a measure, discarded at the last session, to permit corporations other than railroads to escape bankruptcy by obtaining court approval of reorganizations acceptable to a specified percentage of creditors.

The Senate, which last week completed Congressional action on still another administration proposal—that abrogating the gold clause in public and private contracts—will consider the home mortgage refinancing relief bill already passed by the House.

'Ma' South, Leaving Capital, Says New Deal Is Good One

(Associated Press.)

Convinced, to quote her, that the "new deal is a good one," Mrs. Pattie Willis (Ma) South, White House luncheon guest Saturday, left the Capital yesterday by automobile, with her grandson and his family, for Bowling Green, Ky.

She went to church yesterday morning in the hopes of having another glimpse of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, but the First Lady had already started her transcontinental air trip and the Chief Executive had departed on a Potomac River cruise.

Mrs. South had a good time, nevertheless, and especially enjoyed a memorial window, which she thought very beautiful.

"Every one was so kind to me," she said afterward. "But the Roosevelts are grand. Mrs. Roosevelt was just wonderful, I certainly was impressed with her. The new deal is here and it's a good one!"

Mrs. South's grandson, Joe Willis Dejarnette, came to Washington yesterday with his wife and "Ma" South's great-granddaughter, Nancy Richard Dejarnette, to return Mrs. South to Bowling Green, where she plans to spend the summer.

Her only daughter, Mrs. E. T. Dejarnette, who had hoped to come with them, was unable to make the trip. Mrs. South's home is at Nicholasville, near Bowling Green. To well-wishers, who called to congratulate her upon the achievement of her life's ambition Saturday in having lunch at the White House and to wish her a pleasant trip home, she said:

"Hope me a safe one; I want to get home to tell the folks there what a great time I've had here. But I'll be back in Washington, maybe next fall."

KIN OF MRS. LAMSON JOIN MURDER PROBE

Brother Withholds Opinion on Guilt or Innocence of Accused Mate.

San Jose, Calif., June 4 (A.P.)—Frank M. Thorpe, jr., of Lamar, Mo., brother of Mrs. Allene Thorpe Lamson, found dead at her Stanford University home last Tuesday under mysterious circumstances, was here today "to see justice is done" his brother-in-law, David A. Lamson.

Thorpe said he wished to obtain the facts concerning the death of his sister, for which Lamson faces trial on a charge of murder. Thorpe arrived at Mills Field, San Francisco, last night by airplane in company with a cousin, J. L. Thorpe, San Francisco contractor.

"What my attitude will be," said Thorpe, "depends on what I learn. I will say, however, that the attitude of the defense attorneys and some of those affiliated with them has puzzled me greatly. It appears to me that a determined effort has been made to throw a veil of secrecy over the facts.

"I am here for my father and the rest of the family to see that justice is done. The death of poor Allene is incomprehensible to me.

"If I am convinced that my brother-in-law is innocent of the terrible crime charged against him I shall be the first to help him.

"If, on the other hand, the investigating officials can show me that the charge against him is justified, I shall want to see that full justice is done."

In the meantime, Arthur M. Free, attorney for Lamson, reiterated that he would produce a witness to Mrs. Lamson's death and prove it accidental.

Attorney Free said he had an affidavit by a man who was in the house when Mrs. Lamson died, admitting that he frightened her and caused her to fall and strike her head on the bathtub. The man fled, Free added, but became conscience-stricken and signed an affidavit.

A graduate of George Washington University, Mr. Brannigan was first identified with the Bureau of Standards and later with the patent service. His work in classification of patents dealing with the intricate subject of electrical transmissions attracted notice of automotive executives and he became head of the patent division of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, a post which he held until his last illness.

His widow, Mrs. Gladys Brannigan, is well-known here, where her paintings have frequently been displayed in exhibits. Funeral services will be held today in New York at St. Thomas Church. Interment will be in Portsmouth, N. H.

SUICIDE AFTER SIGHT OF ESTRANGED WIFE

Despondent Husband Shoots Self When Mate Appears at Ball Game.

Less than an hour after Robert Gorham, 24, of Franconia, Va., saw his estranged wife at a baseball game in Alexandria, Va., yesterday afternoon, he was found dead in his home with a shotgun charge through his heart.

Married last October, Gorham was said to have recently experienced domestic difficulties and, following a separation from his wife, had been despondent.

A short time before attending the ball game, Gorham was seen by members of his family leaving the house with a shotgun. He had gone only a short distance when a brother overtook him, gained possession of the gun and threw it into a clump of bushes.

Gorham was then persuaded to attend the game in Alexandria. His wife, Mrs. Margaret Gorham, appeared as the game started, and a short time later Gorham disappeared. It was learned that he borrowed a youngster's bicycle and returned home.

Apparently retrieving the gun, Gorham was found dead some time later, the gun beside him and a charge through his heart.

The coroner of Fairfax County, Va., termed the death suicide.

LAVA THREATENING TOWN OF TERZIGNO

Vesuvius Still Erupting as Inhabitants Prepare to Flee Village.

Naples, Italy, June 4 (A.P.)—An ominous wall of smoking lava, pushing relentlessly down the crater toward the rim of Mount Vesuvius, today had covered two-thirds of the lava area of the destructive eruption of 1929 and was ready to cascade into the Valley of Inferno.

The upper portion of the valley is uninhabited and part of it is protected by a wall, but observers said if the lava continued to flow at the present rate the stream of molten rock would flow over the wall and threaten the town of Terzigno.

Terzigno with a population of 2,000 is famous for its wines produced in a rich vineyard territory.

Several of the more wealthy inhabitants of Terzigno have already retired to Naples and others are prepared to leave at any moment.

Professor Malladra, director of the Vesuvius Observatory, reiterated this afternoon his belief that the lava would not go beyond the valley wall, although admitting that anything is possible in the case of the famous volcano.

Some of the lava is flowing in underground channels, in galleries created by the 1929 eruption.

Many spectators, including foreigners, ascending the northern side of Mount Vesuvius this afternoon to watch nature's fireworks.

Professor Malladra said tonight that the force of the lava flow was diminishing and that it would last two or three days longer.

Morgan Expected To Be Confirmed

(Associated Press)

A favorable committee report this week on the nomination of Harcourt A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee, to be a member of the Tennessee Valley Authority, was predicted yesterday in Senate circles.

His nomination, sent the Senate by President Roosevelt Saturday, was referred to the Interstate Commerce Committee as a routine procedure. Unless unexpected opposition develops, a report appears probable early in the week, with chances of a quick vote after that.

Morgan was nominated together with David E. Lilienthal, of Wisconsin, to round out the President's board for administering the Tennessee valley project.

Funeral of Gosnell Deferred for Wife

The funeral of Eddie Steinkraus, known to the bonus army of 1932 as Eddie Gosnell, its poet-photographer, has been deferred until tomorrow at 2 p. m., with receipt of word from his wife in Helenwood, Tenn., that she was leaving for this city.

Steinkraus took his life early last Tuesday, Memorial Day, swallowing a poison draught. When relatives, wired by police, did not respond, "right wing" bonus army officials took charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Steinkraus could not be located by police last week and heard of her husband's death through newspaper reports, it was learned. It is expected that the military funeral planned for Arlington National Cemetery today, will be held tomorrow after Mrs. Steinkraus arrives.

JOHNSON PREDICTS TIDE OF HIGHER PAY

licensing of industry, if necessary, to compel agreements designed to stabilize production, create wage increases, regulate hours and bring about higher price levels.

The licensing feature met successful Senate committee opposition after being placed in the measure passed by the House. It is vigorously opposed also by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Working day and night, Johnson has been spurring industrial leaders toward the preliminaries necessary to complete trade agreements. Representatives of steel, coal, clothing manufacture, textile and many other important industries have indicated their willingness to go forward with the trade agreements, which will be founded in part upon wage increases ranging from 10 to 20 percent and accompanied by increases in the prices of merchandise.

The administration is counting heavily upon general wage increases and the creation of new pay rolls under the public works program to step up purchasing power, and this desire has led to the course of setting up the administrative machinery even before Congress has approved the legislation.

For weeks various Government departments have been compiling and surveying lists of public works—Federal, State and municipal—that are ready to be started and the program is to be initiated almost with the signing of the bill.

State public works supervisors are being chosen to pass upon projects in their localities with a view to employing the most men on the most needed projects.

LAST SERMON GIVEN BY DR. MONTGOMERY

House Chaplain Urges "Less Tommyrot in Pulpit;" Ends 22 Years.

"The need of the hour is less dry rot in the pew and less tommyrot in the pulpit," declared Dr. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, preaching his farewell sermon at the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church, Wesley Heights, yesterday morning.

Completing 22 years of continuous service in the Capital, Dr. Montgomery's resignation took effect yesterday. He has served as chaplain of the House of Representatives for 12 years and will continue in that capacity.

Preaching his final sermon on "The Note of Sublime Optimism," Dr. Montgomery took for his text:

"I am persuaded that neither life, nor death, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, or height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Challenge Thrown Down.

He said in part:

"These are the words of the greatest Christian philosopher of all time. They ring like a chime of bells. He throws down the challenge to all blue hearts, to all who have the flag of distress run up in their faces. He declares that the clouds which often obscure and cause the way of life to look misty and forbidding and uninviting are floating clouds and back of all is a good God. Underneath are the everlasting arms. He has His arms about us, about all men, about the great world around about us. He has not sent this world of men on a fruitless and an idle errand. It will not, it can not, fail.

"Here is a lasting bit of divine literature dedicated to hope, faith, and courage. It is not a line, in boldness and in distinctness taken from the Dooms-day Book. It is a call to renewal and in that consecration there is a glory of going on. Fear shadows us today; the fear of insecurity. The wealthy are afraid of their investments and the poor are fearful lest they lose their jobs. So often because of the lack of faith and confidence the fountains of enterprise are closed and the heart of man chilled. Courage should be the watchword of the hour, faith in our great country, faith in the institutions which are the glory of a few people.

Discouragement is Poison.

"Discouragement in the individual is the disease of the sad-hearted; it is poison in the blood; it is scrofula in our spiritual natures.

"In the religious life we leave too many of our issues in the twilight of guess-work. If we would only drag them out into the daylight of a bouyant faith and hope, they would be half won and the other half would be cast aside and forgotten. This man Paul had passed through all the maze of human experience. Stoned, flogged, thirty-nine stripes laid on his bare back. Add these sufferings to the mental tribulation, the cruelty of his kin and neighbors and the age in which he lived. Yet with all these heaped upon him he was altogether willing to be accursed for Christ's sake. This demonstrated marvelous power; unparalleled courage. His was a conviction that was bedrock. It was part of the very vitals of his being. Yes, he was a man of faith. Put him down as one of the great and the mighty faith men of all history. They have made the progress of Christian civilization possible. The crowd has always said 'it can't be done.' This was said at the foundation of the Republic, at the adoption of the Constitution, and so on and so on. But the unexpected has been accomplished and usually to the advancement of man.

Paul Man of Ages.

"This man Paul is the Christ man of the ages. The church is at the intersection. It's a sad observation when the pulpit spends its strength discussing the two Jameses, the two Isaiahs, the walls of Jericho, the Garden of Eden. I say without apology—this is simply just stuff. The old world is waiting for the Christ—the human Christ. Unveil the cross and see infinite love struggling for infinite expression. It will be morning light all over the wide earth when the Man of Nazareth is taken out of the creed and turned loose on the streets of this burdened old world."

Dr. Montgomery will be given a testimonial dinner Saturday night at the Columbia Golf and Country Club. Former Vice President Curtis will attend this tribute to the chaplain of the House of Representatives.

He will leave, together with Mrs. Montgomery, for the Middle West soon, where he will deliver the commencement address at Ball's Teacher College. Later he will go to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago.

Backpedaled

Boys, Headed for Texas on Bicycles, Used Telephone Too Often.

Jack Taylor, 13, and James Green, 12, were really going places yesterday—for a while, at least. In fact, they were Texas-bound, by bicycle, until a Virginia policeman took them in tow.

From then on their ventures in the wide open spaces were as good as over, for Jack's father, W. R. Taylor, 505 Eighteenth street northwest, soon picked them up in his automobile and returned them to their homes here.

The youths telephoned Mr. Taylor from a gasoline station near Alexandria that they were headed for Texas. He notified police, who broadcast a description of the youths, which resulted in their apprehension 18 miles south of Alexandria.

The Post regrets the error by which a picture incorrectly identified as that of Mr. Flaherty was printed with a former story on his death.

Policeman Rescues Driver Tossed Into Creek by Auto

The proximity of a Maryland State policeman to the scene of an accident early yesterday saved the life of William J. DeLavergn, 25, 1548 Irving street northwest. DeLavergn was thrown into a creek when the car in which he was riding struck the cement railing of the bridge near the Laurel, Md., police substation.

According to State Policeman Wade Smith, who happened near the scene, and who rescued the man from 3 feet of water, the car passed him approximately 1 mile from the bridge. Charles S. Rhodes, 28, 1311 West Virginia avenue northeast, owner of the automobile, occupied the car with DeLavergn.

"As I neared the bridge," Smith said, "I heard a crash. Reaching the scene I saw a man lying in the roadway near the wrecked car. A woman, who had stopped in a passing car, screamed that a man was in the creek."

Smith waded around in the creek until he found DeLavergn lyin on the bottom. Removing him to the bank he used artificial respiration to remove the water from the man's lungs. The victims were then placed in passing cars and set to Washington.

Rhodes, who was taken to Sibley Hospital, was said to be suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and severe lacerations. DeLavergn, who was removed to Casualty Hospital, was reported to be suffering from the effects of the immersion, shock and injuries to the left foot.

ILLINOIS WILL VOTE ON REPEAL TODAY

Major Parties Unite on 50 Wet Delegates; Drys Are Discouraged.

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—Coincident with a State judicial election, Illinois tomorrow passes on the eighteenth amendment in a referendum.

The major political parties—Democrats and Republicans—united on a slate of 50 "wet" delegates for the repeal convention to take formal action for the State at Springfield, July 10.

Prohibitionists who have a slate of 50 antirepeal delegates wound up their campaign today with mass meetings in churches, making appeals to keep prohibition in the national Constitution. Dr. George B. Safford, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was frank to admit, however, that the "spirit of unrest which had afflicted almost everything else, has permeated our ranks, and our leaders tell me they don't know what our people are thinking."

Illinois is the ninth State to ballot on repeal. Already eight States have lined up for repeal by large margins.

The anti-prohibition campaign has not been particularly active. Only last week heads of major political parties and anti-prohibition organizations united in statements telling citizens overconfidence that the State would vote repeal might result in just the opposite. They asked for an avalanche of votes.

Repealists here particularly were anxious for a large vote because of the psychological effect upon Indiana, balloting upon the prohibition question Tuesday.

Bride Witnesses Death.

Failing in his efforts to save Scott, Lindsay, nearly exhausted, swam ashore. Aid was summoned and a search for Scott's body was immediately started.

Witnessing the tragedy was Scott's bride of six weeks, Mrs. Irene Scott; her father, D. F. Tuck; Lindsay's wife and Wilber Tuck, another brother-n-law, all of Alexandria.

Residents of the community said the creek runs more than 20 feet deep in the spot where Scott sank.

The other drowning occurred near the Three Sisters Islands in the Potomac River. Thomas Canning, 37, of 3934 Fourteenth street northwest, was swimming in the river channel and was evidently stricken with cramps.

Ross H. Callison, 34, of the Fourteenth street address, who with Canning hired a boat and was swimming in the river, told police that Canning made no outcry for help. The drowned man suddenly disappeared beneath the water, only reappearing once.

The body was recovered half an hour later, but the attempts of members of the fire rescue squad to revive Canning were useless.

Auto Hits Phone Pole.

Canning was said to be an employe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. His father is a former judge of Butte, Mont.

Robert Audan, 25, Hyattsville, Md., suffered a fractured skull, shock, bruises and lacerations when the automobile in which he was a passenger crashed into a telephone pole at 100 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md.

Both Audan and his brother, Herbert Audan, were thrown from the vehicle. They were treated at the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital, Takoma Park. Herbert Audan was treated for shock, lacerations and bruises.

John L. Butler, 27, of 1129 New Jersey avenue northwest, driver of the vehicle, was held by Rockville police pending the outcome of their injuries.

A head-on collision on the Mount Vernon highway near Capital Overlook, sent Mr. and Mrs Elmer Bartlett, of Alexandria, Va., to Emergency Hospital with serious injuries.

Bartlett, who was driving the machine, suffered severe lacerations to his head. His wife received a fractured collarbone. Both were taken to the hospital by passing motorists.

Police said Carol Dovell, of 4429 Third street northwest, driver of the other car, escaped injury. Both machines were badly damaged.

Preacher Smashes Statue in Church

Ottawa, Ontario, June 4 (A.P.).—Robert Wishart, street preacher, who recently attracted wide attention by rising in the House of Commons and calling on the members to repent, caused a furore in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church during mass today when he smashed a life-sized statue of St. Joseph beside the altar with an iron pipe.

About 1,000 persons, half of them children, in the church were thrown in a panic because of a belief that Wishart was brandishing a revolver. One child fainted and had to be carried out.

Wishart was seized by a church official and turned over to the police, who locked him up on a tentative charge of damaging property. Police said Wishart told them God had commanded him to do it.

HONEST MEN NEEDED LENSKI TELLS CLASS

Graduates of Southeastern University Urged to Deal Fairly in Business.

The need of our day is not for successful business men, great financiers or for adroit political leaders, but for honest men, the Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski told the graduating class of the Law School and School of Accounting of Southeastern University in a baccalaureate sermon at Grace Lutheran Church yesterday.

The Rev. Mr. Lenski told the group that they should not bring conscience and God down to the "sordid level of business." "Shrewdnes and cleverness without the soul of honor and honesty constitutes a new kind of thief running around our national household," he asserted.

"It is not enough our business deals should be legal. It is not enough that none can indict us and convict us for fraud or pocket-picking. In the realm of conscience, in the realm where God rules, in the realm of those unseen principles that hold all life together even though men and nations pass away—in that realm, what about this deal that enriches me and impoverishes you? In that realm another voice speaks. That voice calls for attention and respect. To disregard it is to despise one's own welfare and to fail to stand the test of today," he added.

Kreuger's Life Cited.

"At last, after a silence of many months, the inner life of Ivar Kreuger is revealed. The man was a genius. He knew how to use the lawyer and to fool the accountant. Some of his schemes were successful beyond the wildest dreams of our human avarice. One thing was lacking in his make-up—a truth in the inward parts. And when the test came Kreuger destroyed himself rather than meet it. Now that we can appraise the whole game for what it is worth, it really is better to lose everything that money might buy in this world than to lose the character that no amount of money can buy. After all, what the Lord of Life once said to the children of men still holds true. What shall it profit a man though he gain the whole world and yet lose his own soul?

Honest Men Unafraid.

"I do not mean to draw the naive conclusions that all dishonest men are going to end as suicides or that all honest men will live long and enjoy good health at all times. And yet my conclusion is not so far removed from such a version. Not all dishonest men are to become suicides, but all of them walk in the shadows and they drink from a bitter cup and they face a future that is dark just because it is so dreadfully uncertain. Not so with good men. They walk in the light. Divine companionship reassures their souls. They have that inner something that sustains the real man to the very end, no matter what that end may be."

Takoma Park Man Held on 5 Charges

Charges of drunk, disorderly, larceny, resisting arrest and assaulting an officer were placed against Herbert Lane, of 1 Elm avenue, Takoma Park, Md., yesterday after he is said to have attacked a policeman who arrested him at his home when neighbors complained that he was creating a disturbance.

Policeman Albert Thomas placed Lane under arrest and when he resisted was forced to use a blackjack to subdue him. Lane was taken to Dr. W. R. Haynes for treatment and again resisted.

He was taken to the Rockville Jail and held in $1,000 bail. Earlier in the day, he was said to have left the premises of a barbecue stand without paying for the food.

$50,000,000 IS LENT TO CHINA BY R. F. C.

mately 12,500,000 bushels of wheat out of the American surplus.

The text of the announcement of the loan follows:

"After a conference with the President, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, announced that negotiations have been concluded between the National government of the Republic of China and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a credit to China amounting to $50,000,000 to facilitate purchase by China of American cotton and wheat.

"About four-fifths will be used for the purchase of cotton and about one-fifth for the purchase of wheat and flour. Shipment will be largely in American flag vessels.

"The necessary purchase of the commodities will be made from time to time in the open market in the United States by representatives of China.

"For several months the sale of American cotton and wheat to China has been under consideration and negotiations have just been concluded.

"It is believed that this credit will be mutually advantageous as it will assist in removing surpluses from the American markets and will increase China's consumption of these commodities and stimulate economic activity in China and tend to contribute to world-wide economic recovery."

The loan is to be repaid in installments. It is to run three years and bear 5 per cent interest.

In response to questions regarding security and other details of the loan, the corporation issued a supplementary statement, in part as follows:

"Security for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan to China, is a first charge on certain consolidated taxes including roll tobacco tax, flour tax, cotton yarn tax, match tax, cement tax and other taxes that in 1932 produced 22,000,000 American dollars."

The loan is the second made to China by the American Government for purchase of American farm commodities. More than a year ago the Federal Farm Board sold China 18,000,000 bushels of wheat. This is being paid for in installments.

Miss Anna Kerby.

"WASHINGTON, the city of florid congressmen and tea-drinking diplomats, marble mansions and dreary hovels, massive office buildings and thirteen-year-old temporary (?) governmental quarters, broad avenues and tiny alleys, exotic brunettes and scintillating blondes and a city's usual quota of 'department-store' drug emporiums, now boasts even another paradox," says Miss Anna Kerby, crop production.

"In the midst of our uptown furniture business district is a unique doll-furniture manufacturing concern, the sole inventor, designed, skilled laborer and owner being a wizened little old lady bearing the traces of past luxury and so tiny as to resemble a gnome of ancient fairy tales. Nimble fingers and even a more nimble mind combined to construct out of a simple hobby one of Washington's unusual occupations.

"It was a sultry summer when I was sent to see this little creator of small furniture for wee children. With visions of a large factory and dozens of workers designing articles of wood and paint, I reached an ancient building, now fallen so low as to have almost forgotten the days of impressive statesmen discussing the possible purchase of Alaska, or the later echoes of parentless children's feet, who paced the halls in ordered mein, obedient to the orphanage matron's demands. Through the age-begrimed halls I wandered, up musty steps I climbed, puffing as only an overweight person can do, finally reaching the office of my search. Then the surprise, for never could I have imagined the sight.

"Rows on rows of tiny pink chairs, stools, dressers with tiny mirrors, twin beds with real lace spreads and pillows, each modeled on perfect scale, vied with baby blues of ladened shelves below. Approximately half the room was filled with well-papered boxes, representing the room in which the furniture would be placed. A sewing machine, three pairs of scissors, a can of paste, bits of raw cotton, cardboard and multicolored remnants from wholesale houses of New York City comprised the stock from which these delightful fantasies of a child's dresser were formed.

"SHE came laughingly over and with all the pride with which the famous Cornelia referred to her jewels, she awaited my anticipated exclamation of 'Oh, how marvelous' She first thought of the idea, she said, when she tried ot entertain her sister's children one afternoon. With a little paste, the cardboard back of a tablet and some cloth scraps she constructed a tiny chair, and in response to pleadings, finished a bedroom set, which, when shown to neighbors, met such success that, emboldened, she decided 'o invest her small capital in this brainchild of hers. Orders showered in, so that she got larger quarters.

She showed how to draw the forms on cardboard, pasting them together, then trimming them with shining silk braid. Lo, the finished product of her dextrous manipulations were by far more dainty and appealing than ordinary painted commercial sets. Her imagination aflame, she pointed out her plans for a dining room and breakfast room suite in simple, early-American design. There seemed to be no limit to her imagination or potentialities of the idea.

"When I left that day the sun cast a golden glow over the little room, pinks and blues of the completed articles offset by shining yellows, greens and violets of remnants high in the corner. Dust of the building caught and glorified by the sun's last beams threw haze of unreality over the scene, and I left her, this little old lady with her bits of floss and silk, which, after all, are fabrics from which dreams are spun."

IN the early 1880's, a few years after the net game came to America from Bermuda, which, in turn, had got it from England, the Doyles, including Harold E. (now vice president, Thomas E. Fischer, real estate), pitched their court next to their old home in Le Droit Park. Later they increased their holdings to three courts, and the place became a cradle of Washington tennis. The ground was very rough, and that made it necessary for the Doyles to play close to the net and hit each ball on the fly. All became adept volleyers.

Harold became the first junior champion of Washington, in 1893. Connie Doyle entered the District senior championship for the first time in 1903, at 17. He won it and every District championship he entered thereafter. He ended his competitive career in 1920. Several years before that he held twelfth place in the national rankings, the highest a Washingtonian has ever ranked. He was runner-up for the national clay court title in 1917.

Harold was always better at doubles. He won the District doubles championship six times with Connie. Lou won his first big tournament in 1900, the first annual Chevy Chase invitation, and after that held the District title in 1917. Aida Doyle won the District women's championship several times.

HENRY BEHLERT, G. A. O., offers some valuable suggestions to the many stenographers in the Government service on a way to increase their proficiency.

"As good dictation practice is hard to obtain by those wishing to increase or even maintain their speed or to enlarge their vocabularies by practice with other than routine matter," says Mr. Behlert, "I suggest the use of the radio.

"Speeches by the President, Cabinet officers, and other high officials are frequently printed in full, so that a stenographer can check up his transcript, his spelling, and his punctuation. A great advantage in radio dictation, too, is that it is nearly always given at a uniform rate of speed.

"The President and Merle Thorpe offer excellent practice. For those who want a rapid talker, Boake Carter offers the medium, and Kaltenborn is in the same class—both offering practice in speedy and irregular dictation. In fact, most of our newspaper men through being used to public speaking are clear in diction and have generous vocabularies.

"For those stenographers able to take down only at the slower rates, effort should always be made to take down full sentences—to write down no more rapidly than they can write neatly and accurately, for excitable writing far beyond one's natural speed is not desirable.

"Speed will come from constant practice, and the latter is its price."

Leslie Leer, A. & I. File Room, Marine Corps, reported to the sick bay with a bad case of hiccoughs. The doctor gave him a capsule with instructions to break it and inhale the fumes of the contents. He struck it a sharp blow and it exploded with a loud bang. It not only stopped his hiccoughs but left him speechless for five minutes. And Kaufman,* of the Q. M., still sells six withered prises for 20 cents. Wonder what he would charge for a buttercup?

DIVORCING himself from official tasks, P. H. Wood, office of exhibits, Agriculture, accompanied by J. S. Hahn, an unofficial escort, left the city Saturday for a 14-day combination tour.

These men will go from Washington to Luray, Va., by bus; later, they will seek the top of a nearby mountain by motor, and from this point tramp along the Appalachian Trail, in easy stages, to Midvale, Va., a distance of more than 100 miles.

These bus-hikers have planned for themselves a real adventure in a wonderland of scenery.

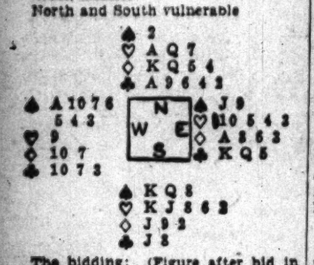
HAND MANAGEMENT.

I RECENTLY observed a very well-played hand in a Duplicate game in a New York City club. Excellent card reading plus knowledge of the technique of couping an opponent's trump-trick enabled the Declarer to fulfill his contract.

West, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable



The bidding: (Figure after bid in table refers to numbered explanatory paragraph.)

West	North	East	South
4♠	Dbl.	Pass	5♡(1)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South knew that his partner's Double was a Penalty Double, for, had he wished a Takeout, he would have over-called with four no-trump, but South also knew that North's Double must be predicated chiefly on outside strength because of his own holding of the King-Queen of spades. Since this game was being scored on a match-point basis, he knew his side would have a bad score, even if they defeated the opponents 2 tricks, compared to what he and his partner would have if they made a vulnerable game. South, therefore, decided to gamble by bidding five hearts, which contract would probably have been reached even if West had not made his very annoying Pre-emptive bid.

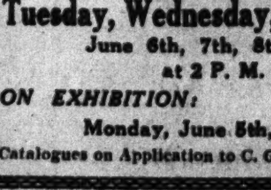
West chose to open the diamond Ten, East winning with the Ace and returning a low diamond, which was won with the Knave in Declarer's hand. Declarer immediately saw that he would have to avoid losing one of his three potential losers. He correctly marked the Opening lead as indicating a doubleton diamond and, because of the bidding, also knew that West had, at the most, two hearts, and quite possibly only one. South first decided to test out the heart situation, so he led the Knave of hearts from his hand and followed it with a low heart. West, of course, showing out. If West had held a second heart the fulfillment of this contract would have been easy. South could have cashed Dummy's club Ace and two good diamonds, discarding the remaining club in his own hand on the second diamond. Then, after conceding one spade trick to West's Ace, he could have ruffed one spade trick with Dummy's trump Ace. His own trumps and King of spades would have been good for the rest.

With West showing out of trumps, but incidentally dropping the 9-spot (which turned out to be a very helpful card), Declarer now had to plan his play differently. He immediately cashed the King and Queen of diamonds, discarding his losing club. At this point, if he had carelessly led the spade he would not have been able to make the contract. Instead, he cashed Dummy's Ace of clubs and shortened himself in trumps by ruffing a second round of clubs in his own hand. He now led the King of spades. West winning with the Ace. East and West were now helpless. On the spade return Declarer won the trick with the Queen in his own hand and then ruffed his losing spade with the high trump in Dummy. This play seemingly set up East's Ten, but East in fact was helpless. He could either undertrump or discard the club King, but in any event the Declarer won the last two tricks with the King and 8 of hearts in his own hand.

Somebody subsequently analyzing this hand told me that it could have been made much easier if Declarer had drawn one round of trumps with a high heart in Dummy and subsequently ruffed the second round of spades with a low trump. However, this line of play could not possibly have succeeded, as Declarer, in an effort to get back and forth, would have been forced to lose a trick to a long trump at the finish.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If partner has opened the bidding with one club, what should South bid on the hand below?
bid on the hand below?
North, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

JAPAN'S TRADE WAR.

Japan is threatening to upset the World Economic Conference as well as the Disarmament Conference at Geneva. By the use of depreciated currency and sweated labor Japanese industries are flooding markets in various parts of the world with cheap goods that can not be duplicated by any other country. Business interests in Great Britain, Holland, France and Italy, as well as the United States, are alarmed over the steady encroachment of the Japanese upon their markets. A general policy of tariff reduction is virtually impossible so long as this condition persists.

India has already denounced her trade agreement with Japan because of Nipponese dumping. Great Britain is considering a denunciation of her commercial treaty with Tokyo because negotiations designed to halt Japanese dumping have failed. Japan steadfastly refuses to abandon her policy of world-wide economic aggression, even though Viscount Ishii, her special envoy to Washington and London, is advocating international action against nations guilty of that practice.

At present Great Britain seems to be suffering more from Japanese dumping than any other country. A report just issued by the Federation of British Industries shows that Japanese textiles and other goods have almost entirely replaced British exports to India, Egypt, South Africa, Australia and the Dutch East Indies. Lancashire, the British textile center, is in desperation. Definite action by the House of Commons to curtail the invasion of Japanese goods is expected in spite of the tariff truce.

"It is inevitable," says the British report, "that Japanese competition must become increasingly intense." Labor conditions in Japan are pathetic. Investigators found that the average wage of Japanese women workers in the silk manufacturing industry is 15 cents per day. The highest average wage in any industry is $1 per day. In the match industry wages average 18 cents per day. Spinners (men) work for 31 cents, and women for a little more than half that amount. While plans go forward for inauguration of the six-hour day in the United States, the Japanese labor for ten hours at these starvation wages.

When coolie wages are added to the depreciation of the yen Japan has an advantage in the world market that no other nation can claim. The Tokyo government is exploiting its people in a desperate effort to finance its war with China. Other nations are helping to pay for the Chinese conquest through the loss of trade and the demoralization of world prices. Japan may be expected to continue this program of unfair competition in the world market until her claims in China have been established.

In these circumstances the pleas of international theorists for lower tariffs and freer world commerce are as empty as a tinkling cymbal. Great Britain will be forced to take defensive measures against Japan. High tariff barriers are of little use against competition of this kind. Outright embargoes may be necessary. It is absurd to suppose that the world conference could ignore this problem and go forward with tariff reductions.

The United States is vitally concerned by the Japanese policy. Imports into this country from the Far East have put a considerable number of American industries under a severe handicap. Now that prices are rising here while they remain at an extremely low point in Japan these industries must be protected. American workingmen can not compete with the paupers of Japan at 15 cents per day, and no administration will ask them to do so. If Japan persists in her devastating commercial policy (and there is every indication that she will); the economic conference may result in higher duties or more effective direct barriers against the flood of cheap Japanese goods. Or each country affected may act on its own initiative, as France and Canada have already done. The vote in the Senate finance committee to give the President power to embargo imports that offer undue competition with American enterprise indicates that Congress is ready to stop Japanese dumping.

RELIEF FOR FOREIGNERS.

At various periods during the depression hungry American workingmen have witnessed the use of foreign materials in public buildings erected with a view to creating employment. Taxpayers as well as unemployed citizens have been enraged to find that a considerable part of the funds thus intended to relieve jobless Americans was going into the pockets of foreigners working at lower standards in far-away places.

When President Roosevelt sent his public works measure to the House that body adopted an amendment designed to prevent the substitution of cheap foreign materials for products of American manufacture in the building projects to be undertaken. There seemed to be no opposition to the amendment. It was obviously necessary to keep benefits intended for Americans from going to foreigners. No attempt was made to prohibit the use of foreign materials where satisfactory American products were not available. The amendment called for the use of American materials and articles manufactured from American materials only if such products are "available at a reasonable cost."

This amendment was stricken out of the bill by the Senate finance committee in executive session. It seems incredible that the same committee which favored use of embargoes to keep out foreign goods, if imports should interfere with the domestic recovery plan, would eliminate this obviously fair and necessary provision. The explanation is found in an objection to the protective clause by Secretary Hull. Apparently the Secretary of State fears that a provision of this kind might interfere with the program he is trying to work out at London.

When international trade projects interfere with measures essential to the domestic welfare, there ought not to be any question as to which should give way. This case is a good example of the difficulties in which the Government becomes involved when it attempts to bargain away the protection which has been thrown about American workingmen.

When the industrial recovery bill is reported back to the Senate this clause ought to be restored. Congress is not justified in spending money for the relief of unemployment unless it makes certain that the benefits will go to jobless Americans. If the international program can not be harmonized with this safeguard for American workers, the wisdom of pushing it forward is open to serious question.

SPEED, MORE SPEED!

The aviator, as nothing else, typifies the modern demand for annihilation of time and space. It is not enough that the schedule of the express train be cut in two; it must be halved and halved again. Frank Hawks has done it. The transcontinental three-day trip of the iron horse he compasses in little more than half a day. Francesco Agello in Italy flies at the rate of 440 miles an hour. James Mattern is making a solo flight for a round-the-world record. Capt. Mollison and his famous flying wife, Amy Johnson, are poised for an ocean hop to America together.

Plans are being perfected and the planes are being built to carry passengers by regular service across both the Atlantic and Pacific. The Graf Zeppelin has made so many successful round trips between Germany and Argentina that its journeys are no longer a novelty, and it is to establish a year-round service. Those who urge abandonment of the dirigible should study the achievements of the Graf Zeppelin.

It would be difficult to point out just how humanity has been made any happier or generally more prosperous by the present-day ability to travel fast. Nevertheless, there is always a demand for any form of locomotion that increases velocity. Tastes never turn backward when it comes to travel. Speed, more speed is required, and each new advance marks the approach to the discard of the older and slower conveyances. It is bootless to inveigh against the airplane. It is here to stay, and its use will expand and its swiftness increase.

TRADE WITH THE SOVIET.

In spite of the wide discrepancy between statements of administrators of the agricultural adjustment act and former Senator Brookhart as to the task assigned him, it is apparent that efforts are being made to extend trade between the United States and Soviet Russia. George N. Peek, chief administrator of the act, insists that Mr. Brookhart's job is to make "purely factual studies" and "not to negotiate with any foreign power." But Mr. Brookhart says that he has negotiations under way for expansion of Soviet-American trade.

Reports from New York say that discussions with a view to bartering American produce for Soviet goods will begin within a few days. Representatives of the agricultural dictatorship set up in this country will deal directly with the Amtorg Trading Corporation, agent for the Soviet state monopoly. Indications are that an attempt will be made to exchange American cotton and live stock for Soviet products, such as manganese, furs, pulpwood, asbestos and foodstuffs.

This effort to barter is intended to remove one of the foremost obstacles now hindering trade with the Soviet. Most of the business done by the Moscow regime is on credit because of its financial weakness. American firms have been unwilling to extend credit to Moscow. Hence, purchases here have been drastically reduced. This difficulty would be overcome by allowing the Soviet to pay for American goods with Soviet products.

Numerous difficulties stand in the way of this project, however. The American demand for Russian goods is very meager. For the most part the Soviet is exporting the same commodities that are produced in surplus in this country. With the exception of minor products, the Soviet can not sell anything here without running into competition with American enterprises. The pleasure of live stock men and cotton growers resulting from this attempt to barter with the Soviet will be offset by fear in the hearts of other farmers that a new flood of competitive foodstuffs produced by the slave labor of Russia may be unloosed here.

Other difficulties in the way of this plan are the anti-dumping law and slave labor restrictions. Soviet exports to America have been curtailed because the tariff excludes the products of forced or indentured labor, unless an actual shortage of the commodity in question exists. It is not to be supposed that the administration intends to repeal this protective measure. Organized labor and industry, as well as agriculture, would be aroused, if there should be any attempt to bring American workingmen and farmers into competition with the forced labor of Russia.

CONTROVERSIAL KITS.

About the only logical conclusion that can be drawn from the kit controversy is that too many cooks spoil the broth. It is apparently a perfect example of "passing the buck" with taxpayers left "holding the bag." Robert Fechner, director of the reforestation work, takes full responsibility upon himself for this blunder, but he was authorized to proceed by a letter from Louis McHenry Howe, President Roosevelts' secretary, which hinted that the "superior" kits were the best bargain. And this letter was approved by the President.

It appears that the matter was bandied about from the White House to the War Department to Mr. Fechner and the Budget Bureau, with no one taking full responsibility for the deal. There has been no suggestion of fraud or corruption, but the Senate's investigation certainly reveals the danger of serious mistakes when an attempt is made to depart from routine procedure in matters of this kind.

It is very obvious that the entire transaction should have been handled through the War Department. Slight differences in quality, if there are any, do not justify the payment of a premium for toilet kits offered by high-powered salesmen. Any official is liable to run into difficulties when he attempts to spend public money without resorting to competitive bids or some other means of guarding against profiteering. The waste of funds leaves an extremely bad impression in the public mind, especially at times like the present.

Apparently Mr. Fechner thought he was following the wishes of the President, without having any definite assurance that that was the case. He had been warned by Quartermaster-General DeWitt "to have nothing to do with it," but he awarded the contract nevertheless. It is well that the Senate is airing this unfortunate occurrence as a warning to other officials not to act without specific authority and without following the ordinary procedure for making purchases. Adventures of this sort nearly always result in acute embarrassment and more delay than would have been occasioned by calling for competitive bids.

Congress has reversed its former policy, forcing power companies to pay the electricity tax instead of the consumers. Some of the public still thinks it is more fun to be fooled.

Mrs. Roosevelt taught an impromptu history class at Monticello. Too bad the Senate wasn't there.

The national debt is increasing at the rate of $10,000,000 a day. Beer drinkers must speed up.

It takes time to make the European four-power pact absolutely worthless, but it will be signed soon.

NOTHING SIGNIFICANT

From the Portland Press Herald.

There is nothing significant, so we are told at Washington, in keeping almost the whole of the American fleet in the Pacific and now we hear from Japan that there is "nothing significant" in the fact that the grand maneuvers of the Japanese navy will be held this year, not in the Japan Sea, where they have usually been held, but "somewhere in the seas south of Japan."

The Japan naval authorities say the restricted area between Japan and the mainland is not large enough for the fleet as it is now constituted to engage in "battle practice," although in the past it has been.

In the meantime the administration at Washington plans to at once reduce the number of enlisted men in the Navy by 10,424, adding them to the army of the unemployed, in order to save the relatively insignificant sum of $18,000,000. Also to be relieved from duty will be 1,000 naval officers and 150 Marine Corps officers. The comparatively small sum to be saved by this action is as nothing when compared to the great harm the morale of the Navy will suffer by this action.

Will Rogers says that whenever the United States begins to reduce its defense forces it is time to look out for war. We have never yet been prepared for war and probably never will be. It must make the folks on the Pacific Coast feel very happy when they learn that the Japanese fleet is engaged in battle practice in waters where it would maneuver if actual war existed and the Pacific Coast was the chief objective.

Another Victim of the Depression. —Boston Transcript.

POST HASTE.

It is being questioned whether an ambassador-at-large is at liberty to barter American traditions.

Senator Robinson still predicts adjournment on June 10, otherwise known as some Saturday.

It looks as though Congress might demand renewal of the consultative pact formerly in force with the Executive Department.

Senator McAdoo called the gold clause a legal fiction and proposed a flat issue the same day, but fortunately, there is also another former Secretary of the Treasury in the Senate.

No, Muriel, not all midgets are Laplanders, some of our natives are to the manner born.

Wouldn't it be good politics for the antiprohibitionists to challenge the dry organizations to a race for conversion into temperance societies if or when repeal is voted?

The general managers seem to have some doubt from their own experience as to whether the industrial goose can be made to lay golden eggs by bureaucratic order.

Congress, with its back up, does recall Cousin Egbert, who, you remember, could be pushed just so far.

"Repeal for revenue" may be another noble experiment, but it is removing the discussion some distance from that great moral issue.

The kit catastrophe is using up enough executive and congressional time and cerebration to have settled the war debt problem.

Europe is disappointed to learn that Senator Lewis and some millions of Americans evidently are not as enthusiastic as Mr. Davis about Uncle Sam's participation in foreign affairs.

If Mr. Morgan harbors any desire to make a public institution out of his private bank he will not have far to go by the time the investigation ends.

The need of the hour is a revised designation, or alias, for the sales tax which will admit of combining congressional countenance conservation with adequate income.

JUST FOLKS
By EDGAR A. GUEST

A DOG.

'Tis pity not to have a dog,
For at the long day's end
The man or boy will know the joy
Of welcome from a friend.
And whether he be rich or poor
Or much or little bring,
The dog will mark his step and bark
As if he were a king.

Though gossips whisper now and then
Of faults they plainly see,
And some may sneer, from year to year
My dog stays true to me.
He's glad to follow where I go,
And though I win or fail
His love for me he'll let me see
By wagging of his tail.

Now if I were to list the friends
Of mine in smiles and tears
Who through and through are staunch and true
And constant down the years,
In spite of all my many faults
Which critics catalog
Deserving blame, I'd have to name
My ever-faithful dog.

'Tis pity not to have a dog,
Whatever be his breed,
For dogs possess a faithfulness
Which humans sadly need.
And whether skies be blue or gray,
Good luck or ill attend
Man's toil by day, a dog will stay
His ever-constant friend.

You Can Teach Hens to Eat Their Own Eggs, But What About Eggs to Set?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN government agencies began to provide relief for the jobless, it was no uncommon thing to see groups of several hundred men scattered along the highway pulling weeds.

This was "made work."

The men moved slowly and listlessly. They knew that one man with a mower could do as much in a day as all of them would do in a week.

That knowledge made them ashamed and shame made them bitter. They were actors in a ghastly farce that insulted their common sense and took away their self-respect.

Doing unnecessary or useless work merely for the sake of keeping busy is a silly and wasteful business that robs men of their dignity. That is a truth so obvious that it isn't debatable.

Yet that was the scheme that made America's post-war boom, and that is the plan by which our leaders hope to make the land prosperous again.

Observe how closely the scheme resembles weed pulling.

The people must buy and use as much as they can in order to keep producers busy and thus provide jobs at high wages for people who will buy as much as they can.

It is, as you see, an economic circle. Each worker consumes as much as he can in order to provide more work. The higher wages are, the more the wage-earner can buy; the more the wage-earner buys, the more profit there will be to divide between employer and wage-earner.

In theory the scheme is flawless. But all good things are bad when they go too far.

Do manufacturers make things to last a life-time? Do they build as well as they can?

They do not. That would wreck the plan. Everything must wear out quickly so the user will be forced to buy more.

Styles and models must be changed often to make the consumer dissatisfied with what he has.

Last year's product must go to the scrap heap, else there would be no market for this year's product.

It is no longer an economic sin to break things. The more you break and waste and destroy, the more you encourage production.

Does that make sense? Can useless weed pulling make a land prosperous?

It may be heresy to question the wisdom of the plan. Perhaps the great economists know best. But no man ever got rich by plowing under each year's grain to enrich the soil for next year's crop.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Repeal's Test in Iowa.

Minneapolis Journal.

Iowa votes on repeal of the eighteenth amendment June 20. The result of that day's voting will go far toward settling the fate of repeal in the Nation.

Iowa is the Verdun of prohibition. If Iowa is lost, it is practically certain that the drys will be unable to stem the repeal tide. Long before national prohibition, Iowa went dry by popular vote, though the women then had no votes. Their "white ribbon" armies helped to carry the day, nevertheless. Drys, with some temporary reverses, held their lines in Iowa until the prohibition regime became Nation-wide.

The Iowa result will be viewed with more than ordinary interest by Minnesota, which will vote on the same issue September 12. Normally Iowa is dryer than Minnesota. If the wets win Iowa, it will make the odds heavy on a wet victory in this State. If the drys hold their lines in Iowa, they will be encouraged to another stubborn resistance in Minnesota.

A Sensible Law.

Editor and Publisher.

Enactment as Federal law of the statute against fraudulent advertising now on the books of 24 States, which is the purpose of the bill introduced by Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, this week, is a sensible approach to a complex problem. It is conceivable that the measure may have a vital effect in promoting and hastening business recovery, but there is no question of its superiority in method to the wild proposals of a Federal censorship of advertising. That any censorship plan is entertained by the administration is doubtful, but that some form of regulation is necessary and certain of enactment is recognized by every element in the advertising field.

Tax Claims and Refunds.

Minneapolis Journal.

Some campaigners for the Democratic national ticket last year had a great deal to say about income tax refunds. Large repayments to corporations officered by contributors to the Republican campaign were broadcast as choice bits of scandal, with the inference that the refunds were secured by political pull.

The purveyors of this scandal did not explain that all large refunds have to be approved by a congressional committee, including members from both parties, and that they are recommended only as the result of examinations by Government experts. The purpose of the examinations is to make sure that Uncle Sam gets all that is coming to him, and in many cases taxpayers are compelled to make additional settlements. There is no publicity for these deficiency cases, but there is for the refunds.

IMAGINARY INTERVIEWS.

(With Samuel Adams, Colonial Leader.)

"Mr. Adams, tell us why the Colonial Fathers were so determined to throw off the English yoke, anyhow?" we asked.

"Well, the feeling began when the king imposed certain stamp taxes. They were small but——"

At this point Elmer Twitchell interrupted the interview with a bulletin from Washington, D. C. "Have you heard the latest?" asked Elmer. "Congress is going to jack up the surtax."

"The surtax?" asked Mr. Adams. "What's the surtax?"

"It's an extra tax on income," we explained.

"Do Americans have to pay a tax on income?" asked Mr. Adams, quite amazed.

"Yes, indeed," we assured him. "It runs as high as 50 per cent. But please resume your story. You were telling us about the dissatisfaction of the colonies in the seventies."

* * * *

"Well," continued Mr. Adams, "after the stamp tax we staged the Boston massacre and then things went along fairly well until the British proposed a tax on tea. I forget the amount, but it wasn't so much the tax as the spirit of the thing. It was generally denounced as outrageous. Well, we——"

Mr. Twitchell entered again. "Here's another item from Washington," he said. "There'll be a Government tax on gasoline on top of the State taxes. And the taxes on stock sales, transfers and checks will be increased. They may raise the amusement tax, too."

"Amusement tax?" repeated Mr. Adams, his eyebrows rising. "Do you pay a tax on amusements?"

"And how!" we replied. "Every time we go to a theater or a circus or anything like that we pay a tax to the Government."

* * * *

"How do the people take it?" asked Mr. Adams.

"Quite good naturedly," we assured him. "But pardon our interruptions and go on with your story. What did the early Americans do when a tax was put on their tea?"

"They boarded the ship, overpowered the crew and threw all the tea overboard. It was really the beginning of the Revolutionary War and very soon we——"

"Look at this one!" cried Mr. Twitchell, coming it with another dispatch. "It says that all exemptions are to be lowered so that practically every citizen will be obliged to pay part of his wages to Uncle Sam."

* * * *

Mr. Adams mopped his brow and looked quite skeptical.

"Please go on, Mr. Adams," we urged. "After the Boston Tea Party came Bunker Hill, and——"

"Oh, never mind! I guess we colonial fathers were too touchy. The Revolutionary War was most premature. We could dish it out, but we couldn't take it!" said Mr. Adams, as he hurried back to his crypt.

A LITTLE BEAR?

A circus midget climbed onto J. P. Morgan's lap at the Senate committee hearing the other day Introducing, no doubt, the short interest.

The Ford company is still worth more than $800,000,000 despite a $57,000,000 loss. It begins to look as if Henry would escape the bread line.

PREPAREDNESS.

Under the auspices of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins, forest camps will be opened to unemployed women. In preparation for married life, they will get invaluable experience in chopping and hauling wood.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Headaches Coming at World Conference—American Troubles Can't Be Settled in Europe.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I noticed an interesting item in The Post for May 29, stating that the leaders of the American delegation to the World Economic Conference are privately conceding that many headaches and hard work will fall to their lot during the conference.

Their headaches and hard work will be nothing to what the American business man will suffer while trying to figure out the problem of meeting ruinous competition in his home markets from the goods produced by foreign pauper labor, and, at the same time, keep from dismissing his labor and pay the American wage standard.

The notion held by certain statesmen that the solution of our purely American troubles can be found in Europe does no credit to their intelligence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I regard The Post as indispensable. It is as necessary to me as my breakfast. Always, I read the editorial page first. One of the most interesting parts of that page is the column devoted to the letters of the people. Some of these were so valuable that along with some editorials, I preserved them. I must register my deep disapproval of giving three-quarters of that column to the peraflage of H. I. Phillips. The letters from the people cost you nothing. By all means return to the sense, wit and spice of your former column.

LINCOLN SECESSION FIGHT IS DESCRIBED

Rankin, in Confederate Memorial Talk, Tells of Mexican War Debate.

Abraham Lincoln, as a young representative in Congress from Illinois, defended in powerful forensic terms the right of a State in times of transcendent stress to secede from a main political entity, declared Representative John E. Rankin, of Mississippi, yesterday in an address delivered at Arlington National Cemetery on Confederate Memorial Day.

The Great Emancipator took his stand on January 12, 1848, during a debate in the House, said Representative Rankin. The speech was delivered at the time when the war with Mexico was a burning issue in the national Legislature.

Representative Rankin, in his address, paid high tribute to Jefferson Davis and Gen. Robert L. Lee. Of Lee, he declared:

"His is the most serenely commanding figure on the horizon of human history."

He expressed thankfulness that the Union remained today an undivided Nation and that slavery no longer existed.

Discussing the oft-uttered question as to whether the soldiers of the North or South were right in taking up arms, Representative Rankin declared both were right in that they were fighting without question the battles of their country. He quoted a famous poet:

"None but a coward would dare to revile an honest soldier's dust."

The custom of a national memorial day was first begun by women of Columbus, Miss., in 1866, said Mr. Rankin. This was some years before the proclamation of a national Memorial Day, he said. The action of the Mississippi women, said Mr. Rankin, prompted Francis Miles Finch to write the poem, "The Blue and the Gray."

Assisting in the exercises yesterday were Camp 171 United Confederate Veterans; Sons of the Confederacy; Daughters of the Confederacy; Confederate Southern Memorial Association; Children of the Confederacy; United Spanish War Veterans, U. S. A. and the American Legion.

The program began with the playing of assembly by a Marine Band bugler; the playing of the grand march, "The Washington Post March," presentation of the colors as the Marine Band played the "Star-Spangled Banner" and then the hymn "Onward Christian Soldier."

Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Judson Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Representative Rankin was introduced by Gen. W. L. Wilkerson, commander of Camp 171, U. C. V., the camp under whose auspices the exercises were arranged.

At the Daughters of the Confederacy Monument to Confederate dead, flowers were strewn by the assemblage. A wreath was then placed on the tomb of Gen. Joe Wheeler.

During the exercises, there was music by the Marine Band and a recitation, "Scatter the Flowers," was given by Marx E. Kahn. The exercises ended with the sounding of "Taps."

20 Hours to Coast New Air Schedule

20-hour coast-to-coast flight eastbound and 21½ hours westbound, with multimotored passenger cargo transports, establishing the fastest multimotored passenger, mail and express service in the world, will be inaugurated June 11, F. G. Johnson, president of the United Air Lines, announced last night.

The new schedules cut ten hours off the company's present flying time between New York and the Pacific Coast and seven hours off the present eastbound transcontinental flight. The United Air Lines' schedules between Chicago and New York will be reduced from 6½ hours to 4¾ hours.

Thirty of the new type Boeing planes, with a high speed of 3 miles a minute, will be ready for the opening of new schedules. The planes carry ten passengers, two pilots and a stewardess.

FRANCIS WHITE HELD MINISTER TO PRAGUE

successor to Mr. White in direction of the Latin-American division. Jefferson Caffrey, American Minister to Venezuela, who has been brought back to the department for special work, will probably assume most of the details of Mr. White's office, but his definite appointment has aroused some opposition in the Senate from Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana. The post may be held open until the return from Havana of Ambassador Sumner Welles, who is expected to take up his duties here again as soon as the present situation in Cuba has been regulated.

Francis White is generally considered one of the outstanding American authorities on Hispano-American affairs in the department. He practically made his whole career in Spanish and Latin-American political matters. He spent two years at the famous Royal Academy of Jurisprudence and Legislation in Madrid, 1913 to 1915, and has been in charge of South American questions here since 1922.

Two years ago at the moment of the famous inquiry of Senator Hiram Johnson into the methods of financing American loans throughout Latin America, the senator from California had Assistant Secretary White on the witness stand for two days. In his cross-examination, which Senator Johnson was forced to conduct single-handed, Mr. White defended the methods of the Department of State in passing on foreign loans. The Johnson inquiry brought out, however, some of the unique methods involving several American consular and diplomatic officers in Latin America that had characterized the flotation of millions of dollars worth of South American securities. A great part of them are now in default.

The first diplomatic appointment of the minister-designate to Czechoslovakia was as secretary to the legation in Peiping. Thence he was transferred to Teheran, but the rest of his career was in his preferred field of Hispano-America.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

It is no disparagement to her recognized talents to note that Sally Eilers owes at least a part of her recent prevalence on local screens to the misfortune of another.

Since leaping to a speedy and deserved popularity among the more engaging of the cinema's young leading women with Jimmy Dunn in such contrasting vehicles as, for example, "Bad Girl" and "Over the Hill," that lachrymose study in both filial ingratitude and staunch fidelity in which Mae Marsh succeeded to the role created on the silent screen by Mary Carr, Miss Eilers has been conspicuously in the running.

Sally Eilers.

Recently, it will be recalled, she was with Richard Barthelmess in "Central Airport," and now is observable at Loew's Fox opposite—or partially so—Robert Montgomery in "Made on Broadway," a little thing of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's in which she was not originally scheduled to appear at all. Which, by rare good luck, gets us back to that first paragraph.

The announcement that Mae Clarke was signed last week by Merian C. Cooper, executive in charge of production for RKO-RADIO, for the feminine lead, in "Flaming Gold," a drama of the Tampico oil fields, serves to recall attention to the fact that Miss Clarke practically makes another screen start with this assignment.

She has had her professional activities interrupted by a series of unfortunate occurrences that have been a decided handicap to her career.

Her first serious setback was when she was stricken with a nervous breakdown after completing "Waterloo Bridge."

After several more parts, she went to the hospital for an appendectomy—appendicitis operation, to you, fella.

She was all set to go with Robert Montgomery in "Made on Broadway"—ah, there, Miss Eilers, here we are back again!—on the M-G-M lot, but before the picture had been in work a week an automobile accident sent her to the hospital again for a long stay, with a permanent end to her career at one time thought imminent.

Now she is up and about again, hoping that jinx was killed in the automobile smashup in which she wasn't.

Speaking of motor car crashes, Marguerite Parker—"Babe" to you, and you and you—senior cashier at Warner Brothers' Metropolitan Theater, where she has been a familiar figure since the old days of the Crandall regime on F street and points North, South, East and West, was likewise the victim of a crackup a week ago last Saturday night.

It seems that Miss Parker, with her mother and a party of friends, was driving through the Soldiers Home grounds, when in some inexplicable manner the car collided with a tree of long standing, hurling its occupants about with sufficient force to cause serious cuts and bruises and fracture Miss Parker's left shoulder.

The car was completely demolished, and so, almost, was its driver. She is still confined to her bed in Garfield Hospital. The others were less seriously injured.

It has long been one of the cinema's recurrent threats to make Robert Montgomery the screen's ace smart-aleck. There apparently has to be one on the M-G-M lot.

For years, of course, it was William Haines who was the incorrigible cut-up, with Mr. Montgomery running a deep, but nonetheless fairly respectable, second. Now that Master Billy seems to have gone rather comprehensively out of circulation, one is tempted to guess from "Made on Broadway," hereinbefore already mentioned, that Master Bobble, from now on, is to be the one to get in your hair.

Robt. Montgomery.

We shall soon have further opportunity to judge of this. Hot on the heels of his current engagement at Loew's Fox, he is to be seen next week at the Palace with Ann Harding, Alice Brady and Myrna Loy in the camera version of "When Ladies Meet," which was presented at the National by the original New York company the week of April 3, and was to have been the next bill of the National Theater Players had they not given up the ghost last Saturday night.

If Master Montgomery has the role we think he has in "When Ladies Meet," he will have opportunity to do considerable pranking. Let us hope he does not clown it too emphatically in the manner of an irrepressible Haines!

Mr. Montgomery also will appear in another early picturization of a play which Washington saw ahead of Broadway and which the Nat. Players presented before folding their tents like the Arabs and silently stealing away—"Another Language."

Those who are familiar with the Rose Franken, domestic comedy-drama may find diverting pastime in assigning their roles to the completed Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer cast to be seen in this one, which is as follows: Helen Hayes, Robert Montgomery, John Beal, Hal K. Dawson, Irene Cattell, Margaret Hamilton, Minor Watson, Louise Closser Hale, Henry Travers, Willard Robertson and Mardel Turner.

Controverting all tangible evidences that the depression has hit local amusements a resounding wallop, it is made known that during the past week, despite adverse weather conditions, the Wilson Line's S. S. City of Washington carried 15 per cent more passengers than during the same week a year ago.

The water route to Mount Vernon has long been a favorite one with tourists, but many residents also now seem to be becoming "sold" on the cool, clean comfort of a short trip aboard an all-steel, oil-burning craft.

With the many improvements recently effected in the park at the end of the run, the Marshall Hall trip, too, is becoming increasingly popular by leaps and bounds—or maybe it is by plunges and splashes, if you must be nautical about it.

With the closing of "Strike Me Pink," in which he has been starring with Lupe Velez and Hope Williams, Jimmie Durante will hasten home to Hollywood to have his picture taken.

Along with the extinction of "Strike Me Pink," the Pulitzer prize play, "Both Your Houses," and Sidney Howard's "They Knew What They Wanted," Julah Bankhead's "Forsaking All Others" also folded on Broadway Saturday night.

But to take their places, Barbara Stanwyck and Frank Fay are in New York to present their musical, "Tattle Tales," at the Broadhurst Theater, Miss Stanwyck not having been seen on the Broadway stage since her hit in "Burlesque" back in 1927; "Shooting Star," said to be based on the life of Jeanne Eagles, will open June 12, with Francine Larrimore and Lee Patrick in the leading roles; Christopher Morley's "Thunder on the Left" goes into immediate rehearsal, and Helen Kane the poo-poo-pa-doop gal, will have the lead in a new musical, "Shady Lady."

George M. Cohan, incidentally now is beginning to suspect, according to report, that he will not do that new musical show he was planning—worse luck!

Afterthoughts on the week-end snooping "about the showshops:" The pithiest of picture drama in town is Walt Disney's "Silly Symphony" in Technicolor, "Three Little Pigs," at the Palace . . . It tells the whole timely story of the provident versus the improvident, the thoughtful versus the scatterbrained, the planner versus the opportunist, in times of crisis . . . Coating its bitter lesson is a sugary layer of whimsical humor and flawlessly synchronized melody . . . Too bad it has the vulgar touch at the finish . . . In "Alma Martyr," the Vitaphone short with Waring's Pennsylvanians, at the Metropolitan, you will be particularly diverted by the antics of Fred himself, "Scotty" Bates, "Poly" McClintock and Evelyn Nair, the dancer, with the entire male ensemble doing their famous drinking song, with special lighting and angle shots that never could be managed on the stage. . . . The newsreel shots of the fatal accidents during the running of the motor classic on the Indianapolis speedway Memorial Day are hideously realistic and blood-chilling . . . In the same reels, an eloquent and prophetic coincidence . . . I mean the shot immediately following Norman Davis' plea for a reduction of offensive implements of war, at the Disarmament Conference, is of a formation of French fighting planes shooting down an observation balloon! . . . Nice views of the massing of the colors at the Washington Cathedral . . . And the Junior Patrols' parade, a week ago Saturday, in the rain . . . And now that we've got beer, the teetotaler, Postmaster General James Farley, puts in plenty plug for the complete repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

By the way, Jim, what ever happened to that scheme of yours for getting rid of this 3.2 postage we're having and getting back those old red stamps we used to buy over the counter at tuppence the copy?

Home Loan Bank Lists 35 New Memberships

(Associated Press)

Thirty-five home financing institutions were admitted to membership in the Home Loan Bank system during the week ended May 27, bringing the total membership to 1,189.

The weekly financial statement of the banks, made public yesterday, also revealed that 58 loans were granted by regional members during the week, involving a total of $1,715,517. During the four and one-half months of active operation, the system was stated to have authorized $49,244,064 in loans, $37,918,772 of which has been advanced.

The ceremony was performed in the barber and beauty shop, where the bride is employed. She plans to become a housekeeper now.

JOHNSON ADDRESSES HOWARD GRADUATES

Warns Spiritual Difficulties Accompany Periods of National Distress.

There are times in the history of every nation when distress is accompanied by deep spiritual dissatisfaction, Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, said yesterday in the baccalaureate address to the graduates.

"People find themselves not only confronted with inadequate economic, political, and family conditions, but literally parched with spiritual thirst for a faith adequate to meet the needs of their lives," he said.

The United States is losing confidence in the economic philosophy upon which it was established, Dr. Johnson said, but the troubles are due primarily to a "shortage of physical and intellectual resources."

He charged the graduates and university students of this generation to "think out ways to use the natural resources" as a security against poverty and fear of an unsuccessful life. He urged them to think out an educational procedure which will effectively comply with personalities.

He described school systems as "over-mechanized and altogether too heavily dominated by utilitarian motives."

Invocation was given by the Rev. Leonard Z. Johnson, D. D., professor of English at the university. Scripture reading and prayer was given by the Rev. William C. Gordon, of the School of Religion at the university. Music was furnished by the University Choir.

U. P. Takes New Suite of Offices

(United Press.)

New modern offices in the National Press Building were occupied by the Washington Bureau of the United Press yesterday. The move into the new building was completed over the week-end without interference with the steady flow of news out of the Capital into the offices of 1,200 newspapers throughout the world.

Located on the site of Washington's original "newspaper row" the new quarters cover a frontage of 72 feet on Fourteenth street facing the Willard Hotel and extend 40 feet on F street.

The quarters consist of a reception room, manager's private office, library, foreign department office and a news room 62 feet by 22 feet with sound-proof ceiling, the largest single office room in the huge National Press Building.

Man Drowned in Creek As Auto Leaves Bridge

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 4.—Frank Crosby, 27, of Eastport, near Annapolis, was drowned in Spa Creek this morning when an auto in which he and two companions were riding plunged through the open draw of the bridge between Annapolis and Eastport.

Crosby was trapped in the rear compartment of the car. His companion, Joe Callahan, 26, and Damon Dayton, 29, occupied the front seat. Callahan and Dayton had been lodged in jail pending an investigation. The three men were returning from a party, according to police, who thus far have been unable to ascertain who was driving.

Handy Inventions to Be Displayed.

Denver, June 4 (A.P.).—If you have trouble eating soft boiled eggs, jacking your car out of a mud hole or picking a fowl rapidly, your attention is called to the National Inventors Congress in Denver June 13 to 17. Handy little gadgets to facilitate these things will be on display there, along with other novel creations.

City Throngs Outdoors

Perfect Early June Weather Sends Pleasure-Seekers to Open, Finding Relaxation in Many Ways; Tourist Influx Is Heavy.

Taking advantage of perfect early summer weather and augmented by an army of visitors, all Washington was on the move yesterday, turning the Capital and vicinity into a national playground.

The pleasure-seekers began their trek early Saturday afternoon and continued pouring into the city until late yesterday. They came by all means and manner of transportation—boats, trains, airplanes, buses, automobiles and not a small number on foot.

Passenger traffic at Union Station was unusually heavy. More than 3,000 persons took advantage of the regular week-end excursions from nearby States, necessitating addition of extra coaches to the regular trains.

At the Washington Airport were a number of private planes flown here by their owners for the week-end. From early morning until early evening sightseeing planes flew over the city, carrying more than 1,000 passengers. The regularly scheduled incoming ships were loaded to capacity.

The American Automobile Association was the mecca for inquisitive visitors who stormed the office for maps and tours of the city and nearby points of interest.

Not to be outdone, the steamship companies brought their share of week-end guests. The Norfolk & Washington line reported its excursion to the city was almost a sellout, while the Mount Vernon & Marshall Hall Steamboat Co. reported an average of 800 persons per trip to Mount Vernon. More than 900 persons were aboard on the moonlight excursion.

Most of the bus companies said their business reached a new summer peak on their regular runs, and in some cases they were required to add extra buses on Eastern routes.

One of the largest individual excursions was the annual picnic-tour of the New Haven branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. More than 500 employes of that branch of the railroad arrived at the Union Station yesterday morning and were escorted to the city's attractions in 18 buses chartered from the Capital Traction Co. They returned late last night.

Park police reported the usual heavy Sunday traffic in Rock Creek Park, where thousands spent the day in various ways.

The warm weather induced many to seek the pleasures of the city's swimming pools. Glen Echo reported its record-breaking crowd of 2,000 at their pool, while officials of the Washington Airport pool said that they enjoyed the biggest day of the season. At Chevy Chase pool hundreds of others found relief from the heat.

Likewise, nearby resorts were crowded. Most of the beaches reported the first big play of the season, with the regular resorters augmented by friends from the city.

The Zoo was an attraction for old and young. Living up to expectations, the animals, birds and beasts "strutted their stuff" before the eyes of some 5,000 spectators.

In addition to the regatta held yesterday off Hains Point, river traffic from Chain Bridge to the Anacostia branch moved throughout the late afternoon hours with little or no confusion.

Park police reported the largest crowds at Hains Point in years, partly due to the regatta. A detail of 15 additional policemen were on duty during the afternoon and early evening to keep traffic untangled.

Among the many picnics held yesterday was the annual outing of the Danish Club at Shaw Water Lily Gardens, Kenilworth. The principal address was made by Otto Wadated, Minister of Denmark. Following the unveiling of the club's new banner a musical and entertainment program was given.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

EVEN King George is inconveniencing himself to accommodate the American radio audience. The British ruler originally planned to convene the World Economic Conference in London next Monday at 8 a. m., Washington time. When it was pointed out to him that such an early hour would prevent the great majority of American listeners from being able to hear the speech the king consented to delaying the opening of the conference until 7 p. m. London time, or 2 p. m., Washington time.

Kate Smith's songs now will be heard over WJSV on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 o'clock, beginning tonight. This change in schedule is necessitated by the dropping of the Thursday broadcast and the addition of a Monday program.

Will Rogers' radio alarm clock is a two-purpose instrument. "It's purpose is to stop me and to wake up my audience," says Will.

APOLOGIES are due the readers of this column for the announcement that Premier Mussolini would be heard from Rome Saturday morning. No notification was received by this department that the broadcast had been canceled.

Neither was K. H. Berkeley, Washington manager of NBC, told of the change in time to make a correction for the morning papers.

Paris, London, Berlin, Buenos Aires, Madrid, Rome and Cerrito will be the foreign cities originating programs to be heard over WJSV when a feature "Eavesdropping on the World" is presented at 5 o'clock tonight.

The pick-up of the leading broadcasting stations in the Western Hemisphere will be made at Riverhead, Long Island, where the Radio Corporation has a giant receiving station.

ROBERT V. FLEMING, chairman of the Greater National Capital Committee will be heard over WRC at 7:16 p. m. George Offutt will likewise speak in behalf of the committee over WJSV at 8 o'clock.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will be the speaker during the Drake University commencement exercises in Iowa to be carried over WMAL this morning at 10 o'clock.

Gene Arnold, popular soloist and narrator, assisted by the Commodores Male Quartet and Larry Larsen, organist, will bring a new five-day-a-week musical program to WMAL listeners beginning this morning at 11 o'clock.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT officially will open the new radio chain of the Amalgamated Broadcasting System later this month, President Ed Wynn, head of the proposed network, announces. "Officials of Station WOL, the National Capital outlet of Amalgamated, sent word to Mr. Wynn," according to an ABS press statement, "that the President is displaying personal interest in the enterprise, which has been hailed by those familiar with its policies as initiating 'the new deal' on the air."

"Ruy Blas," by Victor Hugo, will be given by the Radio Guild Players at 3 p. m., over WMAL. In the radio preparation of "Ruy Blas," the social drama of a bygone Spanish era, the program department to the files of the New York Public Library for the story.

Almost a rarity, the play was copied page by page from the one library copy by photostat process. It has never before been presented over the air.

The first of a new series of cruises on "The Ship of Joy," with Hugh Barrett Dobbs, known to thousands of West Coast listeners as "Capt. Dobbsie," on the bridge, will be heard over WRC network at 9:30 tonight. Dobbs, originator and chief character in the program, will have several distinguished guests aboard for the first voyage from the new port, including John Charles Thomas, Carrie Jacobs Bond and James Melton. "Captain Dobbsie" inaugurated his Happy Timers program over a West Coast network seven years ago and is returning to New York, his old home, for his first visit since 1903.

Arthur Tracy, the "Street Singer," returns to the air in a new coast-to-coast series over the WJSV tonight at 8:15. He will be heard at the same time on subsequent Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

When a friend brought him to the radio studios two years ago, Tracy was an unknown quantity. He was given an afternoon spot and before long had developed a large following. The result was that he was transferred to a position on the evening schedule. His popularity has been growing ever since. Not only has he been featured on some of the largest radio programs, but he has also broken many attendance records in vaudeville houses in various parts of the country. His work in motion pictures is well-known also.

THE Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church choir will be heard tonight over Station WRC at 8 o'clock, in the series sponsored by the Griffith Consumers Co.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York—Ambling through the night:

Just as do airplane pilots, the drivers of the few beer wagons left in town are careful to strap themselves in their seats. . . . Past experience has taught them that they are often bumped by trucks and taxis, and once bumped it means that the driver is thrown from his seat unless held in by the protective strap.

The Ernest Hemingways are living on an island off Key West. . . . Katharine Cornell is very insistent that her first name be spelled with an "a." Lynn Fontanne has spelling trouble, too. About 50 per cent of the time her last name is erroneously spelled "Fontaine." . . . Hollywood was where she had most of her headaches with the studio wise boys referring to her as "Miss Puntin."

Smart Shoe Shiners.

The sidewalk shoe shine lads are vying with one another to have the most attractive chairs. . . . But a youngster on Sixth avenue surpasses them all with a golden throne. . . . He bought it for a few pence from a costume play which had a short Broadway run. . . . His sign tacked on the side of the throne read: "By Special Appointment, Shoe Shiner to Your Majesty."

Douglas Fairbanks, jr., passed through town on his way to Europe, where he hopes to complete a novel. . . . He has already tried his hand at poetry, painting—and acting. . . . Mrs. Charles B. Harding, granddaughter of the famous diplomat, Choate, is a champion golfer. But her special pride is an apartment decorated by Lescaze.

A visiting Virginian corrects all New Yorkers who call it the Civil War. It should be, he insists, the War of the Rebellion. . . . A firm called Style and Cash seems to have an extraordinarily appropriate name. . . . They deal in expensive engraved wedding invitations, which is certainly in style, but I don't know about the cash.

Night Baseball.

Night baseball games are becoming popular on the semipro lots in Brooklyn. . . . One firm does a good business furnishing trucks on which are mounted powerful electric lights to illuminate the field. . . . One game was halted for an agonizing length of time in an exciting ninth inning until the electricians could stop one light from flickering so it wouldn't blind the pinch hitter.

Dorothy Gish was born in Massillon, Ohio, and sister Lillian in Springfield, of the same State. . . . Lillian Gish's performance as the murderess in "Nine Pine Street" is one of the sensations of the Broadway season. . . . In this for the first time she abandons her familiar coy, fragile style and gives a grim, dramatic performance that is as macabre as it is startling.

"GEMINI."

IF June 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 4:40 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 7:45 p. m.

The child born on this June 5 will in his earlier years exhibit very limited possibilities. Properly taught, handled and encouraged, he will probably show certain inclinations and latent talents well worth developing. Much outdoor play and exercise should be indulged in.

If June 5 is the date of your birth, you are probably a person blessed with great clarity of thought; you are direct in your analysis of problems that come to you for consideration, never allowing yourself to be thrown off the track by the invariably present mass of unrelated and obstructing detail. Your decisions are based on good reasoning, sound judgment and an ability to discern trends in the affairs of man. As counsel for some growing corporation, as a chemist or physicist, as a member of a legislative body or even as spiritual leader of a group, your abilities could be put to splendid use.

Born on June 5, you are no doubt a very dignified person; you are conventional, and you relish pomp and ceremony. The women born on this date are often social leaders; certain it is, that they are active either in church work or in carrying on the functions of this or that organization.

Gotham Bout Is Financial Success

Advance Sale Put at $100,000 for Baer-Schmeling Fight.

$300,000 Expected; German Still Rules 2-1 Favorite.

By HERBERT W. BARKER.

NEW YORK, June 4 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey's initial plunge into New York's promotorial arena apparently is an assured financial success.

Advance sales for the fifteen-round match between Max Schmeling and Max Baer in the Yankee Stadium Thursday night were just short of $100,000 today and, with any sort of "break" from the weather man, a minimum "gate" of a quarter million dollars seemed a virtual certainty.

Advance sales in these times, of course, are nothing like they were in the days when Dempsey and Tex Rickard, fighter and boxing impresario, formed an unbeatable box office combination. The paying public is more wary, waits now until the last minute before putting hard-earned cash down on the line and makes the job of estimating expected attendance much tougher than it used to be.

Last-Minute Rush Anticipated.

Schmeling's title fight with Jack Sharkey last year was an apparent "flop" until a last-minute rush of buying orders sent the match well over the financial top. Dempsey is counting upon just such another belated outpouring of the dollars on Wednesday and Thursday. With good weather he visions a crowd of perhaps 80,000, with receipts close to $300,000.

Both fighters virtually completed intensive preparations for the bout today. Schmeling, at Lake Swannanoa, N. J., boxed two rounds apiece with Tommy di Stefano and Lou Barba before a crowd of 2,000 and will have only one more public workout, on Tuesday, before he leaves for New York Thursday morning.

Baer Finished With Training.

Baer, working out at his Atlantic City camp, concluded all the boxing he will do until he steps into the ring against the phlegmatic Teuton. He will take only light exercises tomorrow and Tuesday and will leave for New York Wednesday, to remain in seclusion in a private home until weighing-in time Thursday afternoon.

So far as is visible to the naked eye, both have rounded into top condition. Observers at Lake Swannanoa report Schmeling punching more accurately with right and left just as hard as ever before. At the same time he has improved his defense to such a degree that his sparring partners have found it virtually impossible to hit him solid.

Boasts of Ability To "Take It."

Baer, the very antithesis of the calm, methodical, scientific German, is easy to hit. He pays little or no attention to defense and boasts of his ability to "take it." He is counting on his undoubted punching power and great strength to bring him victory. He will have tremendous physical advantages including about 18 pounds in weight, an inch and a half in height and 5 inches in reach.

Although Schmeling still rules a pronounced favorite at 2 to 1, there has been a swing in sentiment the last few days toward the big Californian. The chances now are that Baer will enter the ring on the short end of odds no worse than 8 to 5.

Wiggins, Ex-Fighter, Is Shot and Arrested

Indianapolis, June 4 (A.P.).—Chuck Wiggins, of Indianapolis, former boxer, was shot in the left cheek and wounded slightly late last night by Robert Moores, his brother-in-law. The bullet nicked off a piece of the ear.

Moores told police he shot Wiggins when the former boxer picked up a butcher knife and rushed at Mrs. Wiggins. He said Mrs. Wiggins previously had been beaten.

Wiggins was slated at police headquarters on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill. Moores was charged with shooting with intent to kill. Each was released on bond.

Wiggins, known in pugilistic circles for many years as "the Hoosier Playboy," has had much trouble with the police.

Nats Visit A's Today for Series

Crowder, Mahaffey Expected to Meet in Mound Duel.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH the exception of two games with the Mackmen to be played here next Sunday and on Tuesday, June 13, the Nationals bade adieu to home fans yesterday until July 7, their home stay having netted them 11 victories as against eight defeats. This showing was not so good, considering that it was necessary for them to gain their margin of triumphs over the 50-50 mark at the expense of the last-place Boston Red Sox. The pitching seems to be on the improve, though, so Manager Joe Cronin and his men are viewing their coming games abroad with considerable confidence.

This week they visit Philadelphia and Boston, meeting the Mackmen this afternoon. "General" Al Crowder will do the mound work for the Nats, indications are that Leroy Mahaffey will oppose them. Connie Mack is somewhat up against it for hurlers, following the rather hectic series with the Yankees, and the Nats are hopeful of making considerable hay in the sunshine of some mediocre allen flinging in Greater Shibe Park.

Infielder Cecil Travis left yesterday afternoon for Knoxville, where he will join the Chattanooga Lookouts in time to play in today's game. The Nats hold a 24-hour option on him so that he can be brought back immediately in case any of the regular infielders are lost for any length of time.

Vice President John Garner attended yesterday's game. He was accompanied by Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma; Senator Thomas, of Utah, and Representative Darrow, of Pennsylvania, the latter a Republican.

Manager Marty McManus shuffled his line-up like a deck of cards yesterday and the result found only Hodapp, in clean-up position, and the pitcher, bringing up the rear as usual, hitting in the positions they occupied in the other games of the series. Billy Werber, local boy, dropped from first to eighth. Alexander was back at first, with Seeds replacing Jolley in right.

Thomas' first two pitches to Seeds, opening the second, were strikes, and then he walked him on four successive wide ones.

Werber went back on the grass toward third to make a nice stop and peg to rob Sewell of a hit in the native second.

Rick Ferrell, Sox catcher, tossed his bat about in baby-like fashion when called out on strikes in the fourth and Umpire Summers sent him to the showers to cool off.

The Nats were charged with two outfield errors. Manush tried to throw the ball before he caught it in the first. This gave the Sox a run. Goslin toyed with Seeds' drive in the seventh but this did the Nats no harm.

When Myer was picked off first in the seventh, Catcher Gooch hustled to the bag and made the putout after a short run-down.

Myer chased to short center to make a sensational overhead grab of Oliver's looper in Round 8. It robbed the batter of a double.

With the hit-and-run on in the Nats' ninth, with Myer on first and Manush up, Werber ran right into Heinie's hot grasser while chasing to cover second. It robbed the big flyhawk of a hit.

Cronin threw out Cooke to open the game and then did not have another chance.

McManus' only chance afield came in the twelfth when he turned Goslin's intended sacrifice into a putout at second.

8 D. C. Track Marks Are Broken

Lewis Is Beaten by Inches in Feature on A. A. U. Program.

Nordell Wins 1,500-Meter; Vault Mark for Frederic.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

EIGHT new records were inscribed in the books as approximately 150 athletes, cream of the talent from this city and vicinity, battled for District A. A. U. titles in the second annual meet staged yesterday at Catholic University Stadium.

A crowd that soared close to the 1,000 mark, surprising the most optimistic officials, braved a hot sun to see the perspiring entrants wage a vigorous fight for supremacy.

The 1,500-meter special race, featuring Frank Nordell, New York University's 1,000-meter indoor champion, and Red Lewis, Southern Conference 1-mile champion from Duke University, brought the gallery to its feet as the pair staggered into the tape in almost a dead heat. Nordell was declared the winner by a heave of the chest after a lengthy conference among officials. He covered the distance in the fast time of 3:58.6.

Frederic Sets Vault Record.

But the fans were treated to an exhibition equally as thrilling in the pole vault as Ed Frederic, former Mississippi A. and M. star, competing for the Washington Track and Field Club, soared over the bar at 12½ feet, establishing a new District record. The mark exceeds the old standard by 18 inches.

Lewis came from behind after permitting Nordell to set a fast pace for three-quarters of the special 1,500-meter race and all but nipped his rival at the tape. The red-headed Southerner challenged midway in the stretch but Nordell managed to cling to his slim lead, crossing the line a fraction of an inch ahead.

Earl Widmeyer, University of Maryland's sprint ace, carried the College Park Athletic Club's colors to victory in the 100 meters. Widmeyer also was scheduled to run in the 200 meters, but was scratched at the last minute. Johnny Rayhill, of Gallaudet College, won the latter race, hanging up a new record for the distance which he covered in 0:22 3-5.

Everett Wins Twice Over Hurdles.

Grover Everett, University of Virginia, triumphed over his former high school teammate, Bob Slye, in high and low hurdles, winning both events in record-smashing time. Slye was fourth in the high hurdles and second in the low.

Bel Air High School's team used its 70-yard handicap to good advantage in winning the sprint medley relay, final event on the card. The Maryland schoolboys led from start to finish although barely lasting to nose out College Park's quartet, which included Widmeyer, who ran the No. 3 lap of 200 meters.

No team championship was awarded, but the official point score is as follows: Catholic University, 27; Washington Track and Field Club, 16; Eastern High Schoool, 11; University of Virginia, 10; Gallaudet College, 7; Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, 5½; Bel Air High School, 5; unattached, 68.

Jaceleski, representing the Stonewall Democratic Club, of Baltimore, strode the 31 miles and 125 yards under a hot sun in 5 hours 28 minutes and 5 seconds, breaking the course record by 28 minutes.

JOHNNY ALLEN, who turned in a 6—0 shutout for the Yankees by holding the A's to one hit in the second game.

U. S. Olympic Envoy Says Germany Must Recognize Jewish Athletes' Equality

VIENNA, June 4 (A.P.).—Germany must recognize the equality of the Jewish athletes or the 1936 Olympic games will be held elsewhere than in Berlin, Brig. Gen. Charles Sherrill, United States delegate, said today on his arrival to participate in a meeting of the executive committee of the international Olympic committee.

The question of Germany's treatment of Jews will come up for discussion as soon as the committee meets tomorrow morning, Gen. Sherrill said, and the American delegation will lead a campaign against any discrimination in the games.

It won't be enough, Sherrill said, if Germany permits Jews to represent other nations in the games. Jews must be free to represent Germany as well, he asserted.

The argument that the situation in 1936 may be far different from what it is now can not be admitted, he went on, because preparations must be made now, and the success of the games must not be endangered by failure to settle this "vital question."

If Germany declines to guarantee German Jews Olympic equality, he added, it will be necessary to consider invitations to hold the games elsewhere.

Gen. Sherrill was requested by President Baillet-Latour to make a report on America's reaction to Germany's Jewish athletic measures. He cabled the American Olympic committee which replied: "The American Olympic committee feels that no amateur athlete should be barred from the games because of race, creed or color."

Gen. Sherrill rejects the argument that the whole matter is an internal German question. He maintains the Olympic games and its rules can not be violated by the entertaining nation.

The German representative, Ritter von Halt, commenting on the Vienna meeting, said: "Our only desire is that the meeting will be carried on in a quiet, sportsmanlike, friendly way."

Thirty-seven committeemen are scheduled to attend the week's sessions, an unusually large number. The question of awarding the 1940 games will be considered with Japan apparently the strongest bidder.

Cards Win Opener; Drop 2d to Reds

Cincinnati, June 4 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals today won their first game at Redland Field, 4 to 2, but dropped the second contest of a double-header to the Reds, 6 to 2.

The Cardinals bunched hits off Si Johnson in the eighth inning for their victory, but a former teammate, Paul Derringer, held them in subjection, except for one frame, in the nightcap as Jim Bottomly, another former Cardinal, with a perfect game at bat drove in three runs and scored another.

Tribe Beats Tigers, Then Loses on Balk

Cleveland, June 4 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians staged late rallies in both their games with the Detroit Tigers today and succeeded in winning the first contest, 2 to 1. The Tigers took the second, 4 to 3, when Cleveland's eighth-inning comeback fell short.

In the first game the Indians shoved across the winning run on Joe Vosmik's single, Desautels' wild throw and a single by Spencer.

The Tigers scored their winning margin in the second game when Walker, who had reached third, came home on a balk by Willis Hudlin in the sixth inning.

Houghton Shoots 68 For Unusual Round

Al Houghton, Kenwood pro, shooting in top form, negotiated his own course in 68 strokes yesterday, while playing with J. E. Hutchinson, jr., Charles Brown and Harvey Cooper. Houghton's card, three below par, was unique in that he was not over on any hole during the entire journey. This, he states, is only the third time in his life he has ever turned in a sub par score of this type.

Houghton also announced that he would take part in the Canadian open, the Pennsylvania and Long Island opens.

His card with par follows:

65,099 Fans See Yanks Win Two

A's Bow, 3-2, 6-0, Before Year's Largest Crowd.

NEW YORK, June 4 (A.P.).—The largest crowd of the year and one of the largest on record, 65,099 fans, turned out today to see the Yankees win two games from the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 2 and 6 to 0. In 1928, the same clubs drew more than 85,000 for a Sunday doubleheader to set the attendance record.

Brilliant pitching by two young moundsmen played the leading roles in the Yankee victories. Johnny Allen held the A's to one long single in the second game after Russell Van Atta had pitched six-hit ball in the opening duel with Merrit (Sugar) Cain.

Ed Coleman got the Philadelphia hit in the first inning of the second game after Rob Johnson had walked. They are the only Athletics to get on base. Allen struck out eleven batters, fanning Jimmie Foxx three times in a row.

Cain's wildness contributed to the first Yankee victory. He issued ten bases on balls, two of which gave the Yanks two of their three runs. Tony Lazzeri's fly drove in the other. A single by Frank Higgins followed by Dib Williams' homer in the fourth, accounted for the Philadelphia tallies.

MR. KHAYYAM LOOMS AS YEAR'S BEST THREE-YEAR-OLD

Broker's Tip, Head Play Lagging

Former Out of Training; Later Having Hard Luck.

Mr. Khayyam Is Fast Making Up for Derby Failure.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

CHICAGO, June 4 (U.P.) — The turf's 3-year-old honors for the year appeared today to be gravitating toward Mr. Khayyam, gallant son of Omar Khayyam, winner of the 1917 Kentucky Derby.

Mr. Khayyam, a strapping bay colt owned by the Catawba Stable, won the World's Fair American Derby Saturday before 30,000 persons at Washington Park and scored his third triumph in his last four starts.

Mr. Khayyam was a hot tip and a dismal failure in the Kentucky Derby, finishing eighth in a field of thirteen. But Mr. Khayyam is fast wiping out that black mark upon his record and many horsemen look for him to be considerable more racehorse later in the season than he is right now.

Mr. Khayyam Leads Rivals.

With Broker's Tip, Kentucky Derby winner, out of training, and hard luck dogging the heels of Head Play, Preakness winner, Mr. Khayyam is far out in front in the battle for the 3-year old title.

Cleverly ridden by Petey Walls, Mr. Khayyam won the American Derby in smashing style, coming from third in the stretch to win by three lengths going away. He ran the mile and a quarter in 2 minutes, 4 1-5 seconds, tying the American Derby record made by A. C. Bostick's Mate in 1931.

Head Play, the big red horse from Kentucky who seems to have a jinx for a stablemate, may make a comeback in the Arlington classic after a rest, but on his American Derby race he won't offer any serious rivalry to Mr. Khayyam. Head Play is said to be 200 pounds lighter than he was when he ran in the Kentucky Derby a month ago.

League Pitchers in a Hole As Harris Gets New Bats

Post Staff Photo.

who talks freely about his hitting and says he was teethed on a baseball bat.

Hitters Are Born, Not Made, Says Dave, Minus Smile.

DAVE HARRIS, who gave up a job on the Greensboro, N. C., police force back in 1924 to arrest the undivided attention of baseball pitchers, unwrapped a half-dozen new implements from the bat factory yesterday in the Nats' locker room.

Dave felt the weight and balance of each bat singly. A couple of his particularly choice he gave a few extra fond pets. Then he took the half dozen of 'em, swung 'em up on a healthy right shoulder, assumed a ferocious batting stance against an imaginary pitcher and might just as well have said:

"Well, I guess the pitchers in this league are in a hole now."

Dave Talks Freely About His Hitting.

If Dave had said it, it wouldn't have been with a smile. Dave Harris never smiles when he talks about his hitting. Dave agrees with the guy who said that hitters are born, and he suspects he's one. And the records sorta bear him out. He's never hit below .300 in his four years in the big leagues.

Big Dave talks freely about his hitting.

"They say I can't hit right-handed pitching, so they never let me look at any right-handers. But as long as there's a left-hander in this league I'll stay in it. I'm setting a new record for driving in runs as a pinch hitter this year, but I oughta be in there regular.

"I don't mind pinch hitting, but a fellow can't do his average justice going in there hot and cold. I always could hit since the day the Greensboro cops beat the Volunteer Fire Department. You either can hit or you can't.

There's Moe Berg, For Example.

"There's Moe Berg over there. He knows 12 languages and is a pretty fair hitter, but none of those languages is going to help him when he's up there at the plate. You've gotta know the hitter's language, and I was teethed on a baseball bat. Just give me a stick with plenty of batting space and I'll hit .400, if they leave me in there.

"They probably know what they're doing, but somebody oughta speak to Grif and Cronin." S. L. P.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: WASHINGTON PARK, JUNE 4.

Tough break for Charlie Kurtsinger. I mean, coming out here to ride Head Play in the Derby and then being forced to watch Mrs. Mason's color bearer, with Humphries up, take a licking from Mr. Khayyam. Charlie believes he could have won. However, Kurtsinger has had his share of the breaks lately. His mount on Head Play in the Preakness was an accident. And it was a lucky day for Charlie when he first climbed aboard Larranaga, which afterward won the $50,000 Cuban Derby, under his handling and then took the Memorial Day Handicap at Bowie. Two winners for the Bennings boy Saturday.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—FLYING BIRD has a lot of speed in the stretch and gets in this race with a 96-pound feather. Prefer her to GO FETCH at the weights. ROYAL TREASURE to take care of the others.

SECOND RACE—OLD LADY has been favored by the handicapper with an impost of only 103 pounds. Seems the most likely of this group to graduate. She was given education at Lexington. GENERAL PARTH is the one to beat. KING FARO to lead the others home.

THIRD RACE—SIS AGNES failed to cope with the speed shown by SISTER MARY the last time out, but holds an edge on these, I believe. She is far down the list, however, and may not see action. In that event, I look for the lightly weighted BILLIES ORPHAN to step down. SMEAR appears to be a money proposition.

FOURTH RACE—DESERT CALL failed to run his race the last time out and, although this sprint field is boiling over with speed, he gets the Bennings call. LADFIELD was shipped from Maryland in top form and may be a factor here. SABULA lost a close one for me the other day. May be third.

FIFTH RACE—SWEEP RUSH is not very courageous, but is a keen one at light weight. No cinch, but a good take-a-chance wager. MR. SPONGE, if sent back, may go well. Takes off 3 pounds. GOLD CHECK is the fit one. Is as good as those recent victories.

SIXTH RACE—YONKEL is the clockers' special here. They say, get on the line and ask no questions. CEE TEE and BIG BEAU will draw most of the play and will be hard to keep out of the money.

SEVENTH RACE—SISTER ZOE'S last was a beaut. The old mare has a lot of speed now and figures to lead ELIZABETH FOX to the wire. If you must have a sleeper, watch out for CELTIC PRINCE.

EIGHTH RACE—LION HEARTED'S last doesn't go in my book. Giving him another chance. HARAMZADA and WATCH TOWER for the other money positions.

Golf Honors Are Won by Foulis

Von Elm Trails by 3 Strokes in St. Paul Open Event.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 4 (A.P.).—Jimmy Foulis, silent shot of Chicago's fairways, sailed over the stretches of the Keller layout with par-busting golf today to beat George Von Elm and an all-star field for the $5,000 St. Paul open championship with a collection of 283 shots.

Deadlocked with golf's business man after 36 holes of shelling, Foulis returned to action today with rounds of 69—72, to edge out Von Elm by three shots. The victory, his first important one except for the Illinois professional crown, was worth top money of $1,500. His score over the full distance clipped par by five shots.

Hagen Wins Third Money.

Von Elm collected $1,000. In third place came the veteran Walter Hagen, of Detroit, who topped his Ryder Cup teammates with 286. Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., another Ryder Cup player, and Harry Cooper, of Chicago, winner in 1930, tied for fourth at 289.

The prize-winners:

Jim Foulis, Chicago, 283, $1,500; George Von Elm, Los Angeles, 286, $1,000; Walter Hagen, Detroit, 286, $750; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., 289, $400; Harry Cooper, Chicago, 289, $400; Herman Barron, Portchester, N. Y., 291, $200; Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, 292, $150; Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., 294, $100.

DOR-A TAKES LEAD IN CAPITAL CITY UNLIMITED RACE

A TALL, gangling youngster by the name of Bob Ruble pitched and batted Dor-A into first place in the unlimited division of the Capital City League yesterday, turning back the hitherto undefeated Griffith Consumers by a score of 2-0 at Macruder Park in an upset.

The game was one of five played. St. Joseph's slipped into second place by nosing out its old rival, Congress Heights, 4-3, in a heated engagement, while Certified Barbers went into a triple tie for third place by winning out over the Stantons in a ten-inning battle, 10-6. In the remaining games Colonials defeated Woltz, 9-3, and the Millers swamped the Federal A. C., 15-1.

Park's Error Paves Way For Score.

Parks' error of Karl Nau's fly to left field paved the way for Dor-A's triumph. Buddy Nau forced his cousin at second, but came in with the first and most necessary run soon after on Keyser's double. Ruble locked up the verdict with another double.

POST MORTEMS . . .

Connie Mack sent George Earnshaw to the bull pen to be ready for relief duty against the Yankees Saturday . . . when the champions opened up with their 10-run blast in the fifth inning, Mack summoned Big Gawge for duty . . . but Earnshaw was peacefully snoring away in a box seat . . . and Connie had to use Jim Peterson . . . maybe that had something to do with the $500 fine and suspension Mack imposed on the big fellow . . . Washington is not alone in having an elimination tournament to uncover a suitable opponent for Jim Londos . . . there's one in progress in Philadelphia, too . . . Gene Venzke, Penn's track ace, finished a relay race with his shoe full of blood at Travers Island . . . he had been spiked by a teammate handing him the baton.

Odds of 2-1 in Schmeling's favor are quoted by the New York wagering gentry . . . but you can't get them . . . you have to give them 2-1 if you support Baer . . . it's just the old Army game modernized . . . a tire from the racing car of Al Thiesen ripped off and struck the mother of a rival driver . . . seriously injuring her in a race at Langhorn, Pa. . . . should Germany be passed up by the Olympic committee for the 1936 games, they will be held in Rome.

200 CRAFT PARADE IN WATER PAGEANT FOR SUNDAY CROWD

Thousands on Waterfront to See Colorful Display of Capital's "Navy."

Veteran city of street parades, Washington yesterday saw a Venetian extravaganza even to unexpected comedy, as thousands flocked to waterfront points of vantage to watch the city's first marine parade.

Two hundred yachts, cabin cruisers and sailing sloops made up the water parade. Music was provided by the riverman's favorite melodies—good breezes and sweet running motors.

Pennants flew in myriad display. It was the opening of the boating season and the order "dress ship" had been fully obeyed. Brass glistened, white paint shone and lacquered woodwork fairly sparkled.

Street parades have their squadrons of motorcycle police to see that they go off smoothly. Yesterday's water parade was marshaled by three Coast Guard boats and the small navy of the harbor police.

The weather was of the type tinted by facile artists on Florida and California postcards. One of those days that the good poet Lowell was thinking of when he wrote of June—"Then if ever come perfect days."

Gay Interloper Appears.

As the trim 3-mile procession moved along, scores and scores of speedboats, sailing canoes, launches and even a rowboat now and then hung on its heels and tacked along with its progress.

As the water festival moved in gaily caprisoned array up the Washington Channel, the comedy was provided. Thousands parked along East Potomac Park and War College shores saw it.

The van of the marine parade had passed the Seventh Street Wharf and was about to turn for its passage along the north shore of the channel. To the consternation of the crew of the Coast Guard Patrol boat in that sector, a dingy, weather-beaten fish trawler suddenly edged into the parade.

"Get the geehosaphat out of there!" bawled the chief bos'n's mate.

Apparently the skipper of the trawler didn't hear. Hurriedly a Coast Guard boat approached the offending craft. Then he hove out of the line of march—pardon—sail.

"You'll have to go back down the river," the bos'n's mate shouted.

"Say, man," shouted the trawler's skipper, "I've got a load of fish here. I can't wait for no parades."

Glares, But No Shots.

There was a moment of indecision. Newspapermen riding the Coast Guard boat began to hope that the 1-pounder on the bow of the patrol boat would be uncanvased. Not that they wished anybody any hard luck, but what a story if the Coast Guard boat were forced to drop a shell across the obstreperous trawler's bow.

Finally, after some mutual glaring between the two skippers, the fishing boat turned tail back down the river. Then the Coast Guard skipper shrugged his shoulders sympathetically.

"Orders is orders. I was told to keep the course clear."

The water-marching boats had gathered at a point just north of Alexandria. In perfect array they started their prade at the blast of a whistle from the ponderous Coast Guard cutter Apache, anchored just off Hains Point.

The parade routes followed the Virginia channel of the river past Hains Point on the outer side to the railroad bridge at Fourteenth street northwest. About face then the water procession made back to Hains Point. All along East Potomac Park, the banks were black with watchers and cars were parked in an unbroken line along the long driveways.

Notables Review Parade.

At Hains Point the parade turned into the channel, taking the port side to just past the Seventh street wharves. Here about face was again the order. Down the channel came the marine marchers, this time on the War College side. At the Eastern Branch, the parade turned to port again and past the Navy Yard broke up.

Aboard the Apache, many local notables gathered. Included in the group on the trim decks of the cutter, were District Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer, Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler, commandant of the Navy Yard; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d; John A. Remon, president of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., and chairman of the reviewing committee, and a number of others.

The Corinthian Yacht Club had by far the largest representation in the parade, with 129 craft participating. Among others having boats in the procession were the Capital Yacht Club, the Columbia Yacht Club, the Eastern Power Boat Association Club, and the Washington Yacht Club. A number of boats participated from Annapolis, Baltimore and other watering centers.

ROOSEVELT SCHOOL FUND DRIVE STARTS

P.-T.A. Head Says Addition Could Be Financed by Recovery Bill.

A determined effort to gain funds for the construction of seven additional classrooms to the Roosevelt High School will be made by the Parent-Teacher Association of the school, it was stated yesterday by Edward R. Williams, president of the association.

Mr. Williams said that the association had communicated with Dr. Hayden Johnson, president of the Board of Education, chairman of the Congressional Finance Committee and all other members of the Board of Education. The added construction, he asserted, could be financed under the national industry recovery bill.

The school, according to Williams, is overcrowded and the additional construction would not only take care of the excess students of the school but would be able to accommodate the overflow from other high schools until the Woodrow Wilson High School is completed.

The cost of the necessary work was stated to be approximately $100,000. The original plans of the school included the contemplated construction.

Public Sentiment Held Cure for War

Miss Jeanette Rankin, the first woman member of Congress, declared in a speech delivered last night to the Bethesda Baptist Congregation, that only the force of public opinion can prevent future wars. Miss Rankin's speech at the State theater of Bethesda was a feature of the regular Sunday evening Gospel Service.

Thomas W. Pyle, principal of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase high school, presided. Music was furnished by Mrs. Emily G. Dickinson at the organ, and Miss Richie McLean was the soloist.

POPE PIUS RENAMES MGR. JAMES RYAN AS CATHOLIC U. RECTOR

Second Term Appointment Confirms Prior Action by Trustees.

A decree issued by his holiness, Pope Pius XI, reappointing the Right Rev. Mgr. James H. Ryan to the rectorship of Catholic University for a second five-year term was received here yesterday.

The appointment confirms the previous action of the board of trustees of the university and is necessary because of the pontifical status of the university as America's national Catholic institution of higher learning.

Mgr. Ryan's first term as rector began in 1928, as successor to the late Bishop Shehan. He was inaugurated with elaborate ceremonies in November of that year. The late President Coolidge was present at the exercises and received the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Enrollment Increased.

Under his administration the university has expanded its facilities and has increased its activities in all its departments. The number of students has grown from 592 in 1928 to 1,450 in 1933. The graduate school of arts and aciences, which was organized as a special school of the university in 1930, apart from the undergraduate schools, has shown the greatest development. Six new departments have been added and the student body of 203 for 1928 now numbers more than 600. This school has shown a steady increase at a time when other graduate schools in all parts of the country have shown decreases in enrollment.

The faculty has been increased from 115 to 148 and the number of magazine articles and books published by the professors under the stimulating influence of Mgr. Ryan has increased from 177 for the 1927-28 academic year to 326 for 1931-32, the last year for which figures are now available. Six new religious houses or colleges have been established at the university since Mgr. Ryan assumed the rectorship and eight additional religious orders of men are now represented at the university. The summer session has also shown a decided increase in enrollment which is contrary to the prevailing tendency. The 405 students of the 1927 school increased to 1,013 in 1932.

School Income Increased

The financial side of the university as well as the academic has received the close attention of Mgr. Ryan. He was instrumental in starting the movement in the spring of 1931 which brought the Catholic University to the attention of every Catholic in the United States. From the pulpit, through the Catholic and secular press, on the radio and by personal visits and diocesan gatherings, he has awakened the interests of the Catholics of America to their national university in Washington. The income of the university has increased approximately 70 per cent, the expenditures have grown from three-quarters of a million to more than a million dollars annually, but the cost per student has declined from $823 to $773.

In the summer of 1932 he journeyed to Rome and laid before the Holy Father a plan for the establishment of a national organization to be known as the "Society of Friends of the Catholic University of America" to bring still closer attention to the work and needs of the university. The plan met with the immediate approval of the Pope. The society has since been established with local chairmen in nearly every diocese of the country.

Received Many Honors.

Numerous honors have been conferred upon Dr. Ryan for his outstanding work in philosophy and education. Among the many honorary degrees he has received are the LL.D. from Marquette and Manhattan Universities, the Litt. D. degree from the National University of Ireland, and an honorary degree of Ph.D. from the Catholic University of Milan in Italy. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and of the Mediaeval Academy of America, Associate Member Societe Philosophique de Louvain and a member of many other literary, scientific and philosophical organizations.

In transmitting the decree, Cardinal Bialoti, prefect of the Sacred Congregation for Seminaries and Universities stated, "We are glad that the authorities who govern that important center of studies have given this new proof of confidence in you."

Finders Keepers—Maybe

Dad Keeps $79, Taxi Driver $6 and Police $100 of $185 Two Boys Found in Pocketbook on Street.

Finders may be keepers if they keep what they find—or something. Anyway, if the "find" is turned over to the Police Department the finder must wait until an attempt is made to locate the loser.

This was all carefully explained to Walter Crother, 13, of 618 Twenty-third street northwest, and James Horn, jr., 14, of 2134 F street northwest, when, with their parents and a taxi driver, they went to the First Precinct police station last night to straighten out a matter of possession of $185, which the youngsters said they found.

It was a very complicated story, and at the finale a lawyer, much bewildered; a cab driver, richer by $6, and the father of James, $79 in his pocket, walked from the station house, leaving behind $100 of the found money.

It began at about 9 o'clock last night. Walter and James, en route to a movie, picked up an old worn pocket-book lying on the street at Ninth and E streets northwest. In it was $189 in cash. The boys decided to alter their course, hailed a taxi and asked to be driven to Glen Echo.

Noting their youth, the cab driver, Raymond Robinson, of 723 Third street northwest, wanted his fare in advance. The youngster produced their "roll," and at Robinson's request, they said paid him $6.

The next thing was to change the $100 bill. It was then decided not to go to Glen Echo, and a tour of the city was begun.

Several hours were spent and several places were visited in an effort to change the bill. But no luck. Robinson took the boys to the Horn home.

There James turned over $79 to his father. The taxi driver, holding the $100, and Mrs. Horn, all went to the First Precinct Station. The $100 bill was turned over to police—and they kept it.

Mr. Horn, refusing to release the money in his pocket, summoned a lawyer to see what right the police had to keep the $100. It was learned that as long as the cash had been placed in their possession, the property clerk was the only one who could release it. As Mr. Horn kept the balance in his pocket, no effort was made to take it from him.

The taxi driver left, still retaining his $6 fare; the lawyer claimed he wasn't entitled to it and Mr. Horn said the rightful owner could have the money which is left by properly identifying it.

Altar Fires Called Symbolical of God

Taking for his text, "A Fire Shall Be Kept Burning Upon the Altar Continually; It Shall Not Go Out," the Rev. Calvert E. Buck, superintendent of the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, said yesterday in his sermon at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Georgetown, that the fire, symbolical of the Almighty, must be kept burning forever; that its presence must ever signify to the thousands who come to the church seeking relief the prebence therein of the God of all.

"The Christian Church is the power which has carried millions of people forward," he said. "God has come to us from the church. Into this place thousands of men and women have come to meet their God, have brought their cares and troubles, and gone forth with burdens lifted.

"We must remember that God has spoken to humans not only by word of mouth, but through all the senses. The burning fire, the lighted candles, the music and the colorful ceremony all help to distract our minds from the cares of the day, and stir up our emotions and make us realize the presence of God."

Capital Girl to Receive Bachelor of Arts Degree

Miss Pauline J. Noffsinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Noffsinger, 3635 Ordway street northwest, will receive the degree of bachelor of arts at graduation exercises at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., this morning.

Dying Girl Seeks Missing Mother

A mother, missing for more than a year, has been asked to hurry to the bedside of her dying daughter in the Tuberculosis Hospital, Fourteenth and Upshur streets northwest.

Rapidly sinking, the daughter, Stella Mettle, 15 years old, has been constantly calling for her mother, and physicians say that unless her want is fulfilled her chance of recovery is slight.

The mother, Mrs. Myrtle Mettle, about 37 years old, at one time lived somewhere on New Hampshire avenue, police were told last night. Friends of the family said her whereabouts have not been known for more than a year.

Parents Seek Runaway, Missing Since Friday

The parents of Edwin Hutchins, 8 years old, last night appealed to The Post to aid in a search for their son, missing from his home, 145 E street southeast, since noon Friday.

When last seen, the child was wearing blue overhalls and a blue shirt. He has dark eyes and hair. It is not the first time the boy has run away, Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins said, but he never before remained from home overnight.

ICKES 'MESS' CLAIM IS STOUTLY REFUTED BY BISHOP FREEMAN

Answers Interior Secretary in Baccalaureate Before G. W. U. Graduates.

Standing before 700 young men and women soon to be graduated from George Washington University, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, in baccalaureate services last night at Washington Cathedral, vigorously refuted the idea that the generation to which he belongs has "made a mess of things."

Bishop Freeman's defense of his own generation was a stirring answer to a statement Saturday by Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, who told graduates of Washington and Jefferson University that "men of my generation have made a mess of things." Bishop Freeman was born in 1866, while Mr. Ickes is 6 years his junior.

In his condemnation of his own generation Mr. Ickes said on Saturday at Washington, Pa.:

"Men of my generation * * * are in no boastful spirit when we face an audience like this. Instead of offering you platitudinous advice we are standing before you and confessing, frankly and humbly, that we have made a mess of things."

Cites Law Evasion.

"In the name of self-government we sardonically enacted laws only to break them openly and flagrantly. Prohibition statutes were an incitement to bootlegging. Income tax laws * * * were put into the books only to be evaded. We jeered at our legislative bodies; we scoffed at our courts."

Declaring that a new social order is in the making, Ickes told the graduates that "my generation needs your help." He was awarded an honorary LL. D. degree.

However, Bishop Freeman told the graduates of George Washington University, whose ranks filled the Great Choir of the cathedral, that "while it is perfectly true you of this generation are confronted with a situation that I did not know in the period of 30 or 40 years ago, I do insist that you are the inheritors of a body of traditions of which you may be proud. Admitting the 'mess,' admitting the confusion, admitting the disorder in our economic life with the break-up of great institutions and consequent unemployment and impoverishment, yet still I submit that you are the inheritors of a set of traditions, of ideals, worthy of the highest endeavor, and to which you are bound to address yourselves zealously and loyally in the days that are before you."

"Life Still Wholesome."

While not blind to the conditions of today, Bishop Freeman maintained that "in the main, the great body of our life is still wholesome, whole, worthy of you of this generation." He pleaded for "fresh recognition of the fact that there are conditions in our modern life that constitute in themselves an inheritance of great worth that is being transmitted to you of this younger generation."

The graduates were urged to welcome their difficulties since "If necessity be the mother of invention, problems open the gate to opportunity."

Urging them not to go forth with a note of pessimism, Bishop Freeman said: "If you tackle the world in which you live and attack the problems that confront you with intelligence and zeal, there are as many doors of opportunity open before you as there were in my generation."

Will Receive Degree

He took occasion to express appreciation for the honor which will be paid him by George Washington University at its 112th commencement on Wednesday when he will receive the honorary degree of doctor of civil laws.

This afternoon members of the graduating class and their parents will be entertained by President and Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin at the Washington Club.

Class night exercises which will be held tomorrow in the university yard will be featured by the presentation of awards and prizes. The commencement exercises will follow on Wednesday evening at Constitution Hall.

Plea Sent to Government To Spare Science Work

With present economic conditions necessitating curtailment in Federal scientific activities, the American Society of Ichthyologists and Herpetologists, meeting recently in Cambridge, Mass., urged Congress and the administration to maintain these activities "at as high a level as is consistent with financial conditions."

It was pointed out by M. Graham Netting, secretary of the society, that its members regard the scientific, educational and conservational activities of the Bureau of Fisheries, National Museum, National Zoological Park and other Federal agencies engaged in such work, as being vital to National welfare.

Award of the Silver Star Medal to Brig. Gen. Harry Lee, commandant of the Marine Base at Quantico, Va., was announced yesterday by the War Department.

The award was on a citation for heroism while Gen. Lee was commanding the Sixth Regiment of Marines, on duty with the A. E. F. in France during the World War.

Gen. Lee, born here June 4, 1872, was first commissioned in the Marine Corps for the war with Spain in 1898. He has seen service in the Philippine Islands, China, Panama, Nicaragua, Cuba, Haiti, Mexico, France and Santo Domingo.

During the World War, as a colonel he assumed command of the Sixth Regiment, Fourth Marine Brigade, of the Second Division, United States Army, just prior to the fighting in Belleau Wood. Under his command the regiment participated with distinction in the Aisne-Marne offensive (Soissons), the Marbache sector; the St. Mihiel offensive, Blanc-Mont Ridge, Champagne sector; the Meuse Argonne offensive (Argonne Forest), and in the march of the Allies to the Rhine.

Following the World War, Gen. Lee was ordered to Santo Domingo as commander of the Brigade of Marines occupying that country, where, after three years, he evacuated the American Occupation Force. During his last eighteen months in Santo Domingo, Gen. Lee was military governor.

Gen. Lee holds the Distinguished Service Medals of both Army and Navy; the Victory Campaign medal for participation in five major engagements in the World War, in four of which he was cited in Army Orders; the medal of Officer of the Legion of Honor of France; the Croix de Guerre of the French Government with two palms; a citation of Marshal Petain of France in appreciation of his leadership of the Sixth Regiment of United States Marines in the World War; the Fourragere of the French Army, indicating two or more citations of his regiment in French War Office orders, and several campaign medals.

"The Teacher," Hughes' Topic at Goucher Rites

The baccalaureate sermon at Goucher College, Baltimore, was delivered in Catherine Hooper Hall yesterday by the Rev. Edwin Holt Hughes, resident Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington area. In addressing the 174 graduates assembled in cap and gown, Bishop Hughes discussed "The Teacher." The president of the college, Dr. David A. Robertson, presided and the college choir participated.

100 D. C. VETERANS ELIGIBLE TO ENROLL FOR WORK IN CAMPS

Quota Will Be Selected for Emergency Conservation Projects June 12.

One hundred war veterans from the District of Columbia will be eligible for enrollment in the emergency conservation work camps to be established in national and State forests as part of President Roosevelt's reforestation program, under quotas announced yesterday.

In making known State quotas, Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, and Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, said a total of 25,000 men will be selected.

Selection of the men will begin June 12. Enrollment by the Army will start June 26. The program calls for placing the entire veterans' quota in Army conditioning camps by July 6. On that date there will be a total of 300,000 men in the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Other Veterans Eligible.

In making the program public, Gen. Hines revealed that jobs in the forest forces have been opened to veterans of the Spanish-American War, the Philippine insurrection the Morocco expedition and the Boxer rebellion, as well as to men who fought in the World War.

Selections will be made by managers of regional offices in the Veterans' Administration.

Seven per cent of the total number of veterans to be selected by each manager for enrollment will be from veterans of wars prior to the World War, with the remaining 93 per cent from World War veterans.

Qualifications Listed.

To be eligible a veteran must have served in the armed forces of the United States during a war; be honorably discharged from such service; be unemployed and a citizen of the United States. He must also be physically fit for manual labor and of good character and general fitness to perform the work required, these qualifications being attested by at least four indorsements which may be obtained from representatives of organizations engaged in relief work, such as the Red Cross, officers of former service organizations, prominent citizens or a notary public acquainted with the facts upon which the application is based.

Preferential consideration will be given to unemployed veterans with dependents.

All enrollments are for six months, after which the veterans will be sent home at Government expense. Veterans accepted who have dependents will be expected to allot three-fourths of their allowances to the dependents, the remaining fourth to be paid the veteran monthly. Veterans who have no dependents will be paid monthly one-fourth of the cash allowance, the remaining three-fourths to be withheld and paid at the end of service. The basic allowance will be $30 a month.
